AVAILABLE TROOPS RUSHED TO TSINAN

Northerners Attempt to Stem
Advance of Enemy to Pekin

Shanghai—(AP)—Marshal Chang Tso-Lin, northern dictator, Friday was rushing all available troops he could muster, in Manchuria into Shantung to stem the advance of the southerners across that province and toward the objective of their drive—Peking.

The troops were being sent to Teh-chow, near the Shantung-Chihli border and about 40 miles northwest of Tsinan, which is still in the hands of the northerners.

This feverish movement of troops and the sudden transference of supreme northern command indicated that the southerners, although they failed to capture Tsinan, were having considerable success in their drive.

At a conference of northern generals in Tsinan supreme command was given Sun Chuan-fang, Chang Tsung-chang, military governor of Shantung, retreating to the rear.

Advances from both Tsinan and Tientsin said that the northerners were still in control of the city which was calm. Train service was normal without any sign of overcrowding.

The northern forces claimed they were holding a line running from Pingyin on the banks of the Yellow river, through Feicheng to Tsinanfu, on the railway connecting Tsinan and Nanking. This would place them only 30 miles to the south of Tsinan.

Three governments, the United States, Great Britain and Japan, have adopted precautions to protect their nationals.

On a charge of murdering Joseph Sczymanski, grocer, in a holdup that netted them $130, five youths (the oldest 22 and the youngest 15, have gone on trial for murder in Chicago. Above: Casimir Pietrowski and Stanley Lucas. Below: Roman Balczemlak, Michael Cios, and Harry Zdzianiewicz.

Many Famous Names Now Absent On Social Lists

New York—(AP)—Many a name famous in American history and society will be missing this year from the roster of the nation's first families—the Social Register.

Lack of interest on the part of those whose names, money or ancestry entitle them to inclusion in the blue book of society is responsible, officials of the Social Registry association declare, for the dropping from the 1928 yearbook of the social leaders of eleven cities heretofore listed.

So little attention was paid, the association says, by residents of Providence, Cleveland, Dayton, Detroit, Richmond, Savannah Charleston and Atlanta to requests for the data needed for the Register that those cities will no longer be given a place.

Every city dropped from the volume has been represented in it in past years by names of wide note. Providence contributed the such historic Puritan names as Abbott, Ames, Babcock and Cabot, as well as those of William D. Waterman, the Cyrus Tafts and the Wilfred H. Munros. Detroit's disappearance from the Social Register deprives the book of many a name made famous in the manufacture of automobiles—Chalmers, Chalmers, Fisher, Henry and Edsel Ford, Paige and others.

From Cincinnati a column of Tafts has adorned the pages of the register—Villia mif. Taft, Charles F. Taft, and Robert A. among others. Also from Cincinnati were the Rudolph Wurlitzers, the Patterson Pognes, Julius Fleischman, the Hannas, the Krogers and the Peebles. Minneapolis and St. Paul have contributed their share, including the names of such famous families identified with the four-

MENASHA MAN DENIES HE WAS DRUNK WHILE DRIVING

John Gotthardt, 404 Ahnape-st, Menasha, pleaded not guilty of drunken driving before Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Friday morning and his trial was set for 2 o'clock Monday afternoon. Gotthardt was unable to furnish bonds of $100 and is being held at the county jail. Officer Carl Radtke arrested the Menasha man at the corner of N. Appleton and W. Washington-sts. about 12:30 Thursday noon after the police received word that a driver was zig-zagging on the street and endangering traffic.

MOVE FAIR OFFICE TO WEST ALLIS GROUNDS

Madison—(AP)—Offices of the Wisconsin state fair will be moved from the state Capitol to the Fair Grounds, near Milwaukee, May 1 and will remain there until after the close of the state fair. Fred C. Borchardt, Jr., in making this announcement today said that correspondence regarding the fair and any of its divisions should be addressed to the state fair grounds, West Allis, after May 1.

Mr. Borchardt, business manager of the fair, said that assignment of exhibit space, receiving entries and all other details in connection with the preparation for the annual exposition will be handled from the Fair Grounds office.

The state fair staff consist of A. W. Kalbus, associate manager; Dorothy Brahm, stenographer and W. R. Phillips, superintendent of concessions and thirty departmental directors.

LETTER GOLF

OAR PADDLE BACKWARDS
Can you SAIL a BOAT? It's a fairly easy par five in letter golf provided you steer a straight course. One solution is on page 9.

S	A	I	L
B	O	A	T

THE RULES

1—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change Cow to Hen, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.

2—You can change only one letter of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count.

3—You must have a complete word, at a time.

4—The order of letters cannot be changed.

TENNIS CLASSES START TUESDAY

The Women's tennis classes will be held at the Appleton high school gymnasium, starting at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening and will be held at the same time each Tuesday and Thursday evening. The indoor practice will continue until the Y. M. C. A. courts are put into condition. The married women's tennis practice will be held at the Appleton Woman's club play house every Tuesday and Thursday.

GREEN BAY SALESMEN FLY TO CONVENTION

The aviation season is open in Appleton and the North American Airway company's ship the "Pride of Appleton" is spending a large part of the time in the air. Runways at the George A. Whiting Airport have been put into condition for use and other work about the field is being completed.

The ship will leave Monday morning for Atchison, Kan., with sales representatives of the McIntyre-Burall company, Green Bay, to a convention of radio jobbers.

A trip to Miami, Fla., and return is scheduled later in the week by a group of Milwaukee Shriners who will attend the shrine convolve there.

TRUCK COMPANY WANTS TO INCREASE RATES

A hearing on an application of the Northern Transportation company, operating between Green Bay and Milwaukee, via Appleton and Fond du Lac, to increase its rates will be held at Madison on May 8 by the Wisconsin Industrial Commission. Proposed rates sought by the Green Bay company would be based on its own classification of freight, according to the application. The increases are from 4 to 5 cents a hundred pounds on first class freight; 3 to 3 1/2 cents on second class; 3 to 3 1/2 cents on third class; and from 3 to 4 cents on fourth class.

Two building permits were issued Friday morning by city building inspector, John N. Welland. One was to Valentine Muthis, 1203 N. Division-st., to repair his home at a cost of $500; the other was to Arpo Krug, 420 E. Circle-st., to build a garage at a cost of $200.

Teachers Discover Best Records Are Made When Mothers Give This Care

Displayed on the walls of 70,000 school rooms is this sign:

"Every boy and girl needs a hot cereal breakfast"

The breakfast you start your children out with will often determine their success—in the classroom, on the playground, during the day. And only a hot, cooked cereal can furnish the energy they need.

For over 30 years authorities have recommended one particular hot, cooked cereal as ideal—Cream of Wheat. You probably know how rich it is in energy, how easy to digest. Don't let your children be handicapped for lack of this simple care. Give them Cream of Wheat regularly. Cream of Wheat Company, Minneapolis, Minn.

[FREE—a plan that arouses children's interest in eating a hot, cooked cereal breakfast; colored posters, gold stars, club badges, etc., with a sample box Cream of Wheat and booklet on child feeding. All free. Address Dept. PC-26 Cream of Wheat Co., Minneapolis, Minn.]

GENERAL WEATHER

The pressure is high and the weather fair and cool throughout the entire central portion of the country this morning. A low pressure area is moving eastward along the gulf coast to the south Atlantic states, attended by showers over the south. The pressure is low over the Canadian northwest this morning, with moderate temperatures. These conditions favor fair weather in this section tonight and Saturday, with continued low temperatures tonight, followed by rising temperature on Saturday as the crest of the high moves past and the northwest low advances.

ASSEMBLYMAN ACTS TO PREVENT ANOTHER "FINANCIAL FIASCO"

Seftenberg Writes Party Leaders Asking for Their Support

Madison—(AP)—To prevent "a financial fiasco" like the board of control and normal school troubles of the 1927 legislature and its two special sessions, Assemblyman Chester Seftenberg, has written to heads of all political parties of the state asking their party's endorsement of a state budget bureau.

"There are occasions when issues arise too vital to the welfare of the whole state that they transcend all party lines and all party warfare," the letter said. It was addressed to Frank J. Weber, Milwaukee; John M. Calahan, Milwaukee; Oliver Needham, River Falls; Herman Ekern, Madison; and A. F. Fontaine, Green Bay.

The budget bureau or department would do away with a daily ledger-main of surpluses, deficits, and tail end balances which made their appearance in the last legislature, according to Mr. Seftenberg, who said today that the proposal has the endorsement of several legislators and others, including state Senator Walter S. Goodland of Racine.

The surest way to make certain that the legislature will act on a given proposal is to elect a legislature pledged before election to that legislation," the letter told the chairman or campaign directors. To this end, Mr. Seftenberg asked "truly non-political endeavor" toward the budget plan, platform pledges for it and pledges of candidates for its support.

"My only interest is to make certain that this legislation will be given careful consideration by the next legislature and to make certain that politics will be so eliminated from that consideration as to make possible the adoption of some budget legislation," Mr. Seftenberg told the party leaders.

His proposals are for a budget system to include:

"An expert, systematic and impartial consolidation of budget estimates so as to permit a proper balancing of expenditure and revenue by some competent authority."

"An orderly, concise and timely presentation of a balanced budget to the legislature with provisions to insure an adequate and comprehensive consideration of it by that body and to provide checks to prevent an upsetting of the balance sheet."

"Measures designed to centralize and simplify the execution of the plan under legal direction with sufficient checks by means of a proper and centralized auditing and accounting."

"Such a plan could be effected without greatly altering or changing the existing machinery now operating in our state government."

Country Needs Protective Tariff, Harwood Believes

(Editor's Note—This is the first of a series of articles prepared by prominent Outagamie-co residents on what they believe should be contained in an ideal "platform" for the major political parties in the United States. These articles were prepared at the request of The Post-Crescent. Another article will appear in the near future.)

BY F. J. HARWOOD
President, Appleton Woolen Mills

In accordance with your request of March 7, I give my opinion relative to specific planks in the Republican party platform as follows:

1. A national budget is not only necessary but must be adhered to. There must be a balancing of expense with income, and the expense must be kept below the income.

2. By keeping the expense below the income there can be a further reduction in federal income tax. The result of this will be to further stimulate business.

3. Additional freedom and stimulation of business will assist in employment.

4. Additional employment means a larger amount of wages which in turn means larger purchasing power, means greater demand, and consequently ability to better maintain the present wage scale.

5. To assist in the present wage scale and consequently in more business and more employment there must be a protective, as distinguished from a prohibitive, tariff. This is absolutely necessary to keep our standard of living at the present high level. If we unduly enter into competition with Europe it will mean speedy reduction to the European standard of living, which would be very regrettable.

6. I believe in observance of all laws. If prohibition is not wanted by the country, repeal the law; but until it is repealed, enforce it.

7. I do not believe in child labor. Laws protecting children should be federal so that industries in all states may be on the same level. If a child labor law is enacted in one state but not in another state having competitive industries, the industries in the state having the law are penalized and are hampered in their getting business as against industries in the state where this law does not obtain. This, of course, applies to many other laws than that of child labor.

8. The conservation of our national resources for the future welfare of the country is necessary. We have passed from an agriculture to a manufacturing nation and must therefore watch very closely the source and the cost of our raw material.

9. Agriculture and industry must prosper together. Neither can prosper alone. Prosperity can be achieved by the other industry needs an outlet for its products, and agriculture needs the market which industry creates through city growth. An example of this latter fact may be taken from Wisconsin experience. Statistics show that the eastern third of the state has the larger share of factories—and yet the foreclosure of farms in this section was not nearly so large in proportion as in the western two-thirds where industry is comparatively sparse. In other words, home markets greatly determine farm values and income. I believe that agriculture should be protected. The proper method is quite another question.

WANT DELEGATES TO MAKE TRIP BY AIR

The suggestion that Appleton city officials attending the convention of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities next month make the trip to Milwaukee by airplane has been made by the North American Airways company, owners of the "Pride of Appleton." Officials of the company point out that much time will be saved by using the plane. The fare has been estimated at $20 for each person making the trip.

Mayor A. C. Rule, Alfred C. Bosser, city attorney, Carl Decher, city clerk, L. M. Schindler, city engineer and the alderman have been authorized to attend the convention.

RELATE DETAILS OF
AUTO COLLISION IN WHICH THREE DIED

Defendant Says Denny Machine Was Travelling More Than 50 Miles an Hour

Neenah—Testimony is being taken in the damage case of Paul J. Denny and son against Joseph D. Ryan, Chicago attorney, in Circuit court at Oshkosh, and from the amount of testimony still to be taken, the case will reach into next week. The case is the outcome of an auto collision last fall on Highway 41 in which three persons were killed.

Joseph Ryan, defendant in the action, was on the stand Thursday afternoon and gave his version of the accident. He declared that the Denny car came out from behind what he believed to have been a southbound truck, so close to his car, approaching from the opposite direction, that he turned to the left of the highway to avoid collision. He declared he then observed that it appeared Denny was going to straighten out his machine.

"I turned back to try to get on my side of the road," he said, declaring that the right corner of the Denny machine met. He stated he was traveling at a rate of about 40 miles an hour and that he believed the Denny machine was traveling in excess of 50 miles an hour.

Arthur Ryan, son of the defendant, who was in the machine when the accident occurred, related the same story, alleging that the Denny car took the wrong side of the highway in passing other vehicles.

There were several other defense witnesses called to the stand to give their version of the accident as they saw it. Among them was N. S. Osmund, introduced as a wreck expert, who gave the statement that if the accident had happened with the Denny car traveling 35 miles an hour and the Ryan car at 70 miles an hour, the former would have been thrown completely off the road and the Ryan heavy car would have kept going some distance.

NEENAH BENEFITS BY ADDITIONAL TRAINS

No. 102, Changed to Run Down the Lakeshore, Restored to Division

Neenah—Several important changes in the Chicago-Northwestern line which will be of great benefit to the traveling public go into effect Sunday. Train No. 121, northbound, now due here at 2:10 in the morning, will, at 2:15 Sunday, be due here at 2:45. Train No. 117, northbound, at 7:35 in the morning, will arrive here 13 minutes earlier. Train No. 205, now due here at 5:27 in the afternoon, will arrive here at 5:32.

South bound trains, which will change their time Sunday, No. 208, now due at 7:15 in the morning, which changes to 7:22, and No. 216, now arriving at 4:33 in the afternoon for Chicago, which will depart at 4 o'clock.

Train No. 102 recently taken off of this division and run over the lakeshore way, will be restored to this division Sunday, leaving here at 1:38 and will arrive at 7 o'clock in the morning at Chicago.

Another important change announced is the running through to Milwaukee daily of train No. 224. This train has, until now, terminated at Fond du Lac except on Sundays when it operated through to Milwaukee. This train leaves Neenah at 9:33 in the evening and carries a Chicago and Milwaukee sleeper.

TIED HOMING PIGEON
ALIGHTS IN DOORWAY

Neenah—Frank Helvy, employed at the Burstein plant, has a homing pigeon which flew into the factory door shortly before noon Saturday afternoon. Upon one of the bird's legs was a message which evidently had been sent from New London. The bird had been let loose at 1 o'clock at New London, and had probably been taken fired out and flew as far as Neenah, and took refuge in the factory doorway. Mr. Helvy is holding the bird until the owner claims it.

CHARLES SCHULTZ
DIES AFTER SIX WEEKS OF ILLNESS

Second Ward Supervisor and Former Mayor Served City in Many Capacities

Neenah—Charles Schultz, 70, a resident of Neenah, for the last 43 years, died at 1 o'clock Friday noon at his home on N. Commercial st., following an illness of about six weeks. Surviving are the widow, one son Clarence Schultz, and one grandson, Charles Schultz, all of Neenah; three sisters, Mrs. Mary Walker, Mrs. Emma Meyer and Miss Anna Schultz, all of Joliet, Ill.

Mr. Schultz was born Jan. 18, 1858, at Harrison, Ohio, where he spent his boyhood days. He came to Neenah in 1885 as a cigarmaker and was married two years later to Miss Katie Haug. He continued as a manufacturer of cigars until 20 years ago, when, with his son, he erected the store building on N. Commercial-st. in which he engaged in the wholesale and retail cigar, tobacco and sporting goods business.

During his residence here he served the state, county and city in official capacity. He was elected a member of the state assembly from the Sixth district in 1912; was mayor of Neenah from 1902 to 1906 and represented the Second ward as alderman four times. In 1927 he was elected as a member of Winnebago-co board from the Second ward and was re-elected almost unanimously this spring but owing to his illness could not be sworn into office. He also was a member of the cemetery commission and jury commissioner for the county.

Mr. Schultz was a member of Kane Lodge of Masons which he had served as master three times and was the second oldest master of the lodge in the city. He also was a member of Chapter 18, Knights Templar, Eastern Star, a charter member of the Neenah Order of Eagles, Modern Woodman and Equitable fraternal union.

The body will be taken to Masonic Temple. The funeral will be held at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon under the direction of Kane Lodge. Knights Templar will act as escorts. The Rev. J. E. Garrett, of Oshkosh, a former neighbor of Mr. Schultz, will preside. Burial will be at Oak Hill cemetery.

NEENAH SOCIETY

Neenah—The young people taking part in the class plays at high school, will hold a party Friday evening at Kimberly school gymnasium. Miss Dieckhoff will be in charge and the evening will be spent in games and other social diversions.

The annual Spring dancing party will be given by Winnebago Chapter, DeMolay, Friday evening at S. A. Cook armory. The hall has been handsomely decorated by Hugh Krueger and the lodge members. A feature of the evening will be the exhibition drill to be given by the Oshkosh Chapter team.

The concert given Thursday evening by the Dana college glee club of Blair, Neb., at Our Savior Danish Lutheran church, attracted a large audience. The program consisted of chorus and vocal numbers with several instrumental pieces included, all of which were well rendered and pleased those who heard it.

The Phi Omega fraternity of Lawrence college will give a dancing party Saturday evening at the Valley Inn.

Mrs. John Hercher will entertain a group of 60 women Saturday afternoon at the Valley Inn. A 1 o'clock luncheon will be served after which the time will be spent in playing bridge.

The Presbyterian Young Peoples' society is to be entertained Sunday evening by the Oshkosh Young Peoples' society. Automobiles will leave the church at 4 o'clock to take these wishing to go.

The annual spring party to have been given April 30 by Eastern Star, has been indefinitely postponed on account of the death of Charles Schultz.

St. Patrick Sanitary society has arranged for a rummage sale to be held at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning at the school hall.

NEW PLANES COMING TO
NEENAH-MENASHA PORT

Neenah—The Neenah-Menasha airport will be opened Sunday for the season with at least six planes on the field. William J. Noel, who had charge of the port last year, will arrive Saturday in his plane from the south where he has been spending the winter, and will again be in charge. Roy Larson will arrive Sunday afternoon in his new Waco whirlwind motor monoplane which he is flying from St. Louis. The port has been taken over by a private club which will continue to operate during the summer months. With exception of a few spots, the field is in excellent shape.

NEENAH SCHOOL CLUBS
ELECT FIRST OFFICERS

Neenah—Miss Helen Webster has been elected president of a new club at high school to be known as the Zeta Eta Beta club, composed of members of the 2 o'clock English class. Others elected were Miss Moll Black, vice president and Miss Janet Cunningham, secretary and treasurer. The officers are elected for two weeks, after which new officers will be chosen. This plan to continue throughout the year. The club will meet at 2 o'clock each Friday afternoon to study modern literature and magazines. The class is taught by Miss Jean Toutenhoofd.

HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS
PLANNING FOR THREE
HIKES CROSS COUNTRY

Neenah—The high school girls' athletic association is arranging for a hike through the country which will occupy two or three days. The start will be made on the morning of May 12 at the high school and will take in some of the principal highways in this vicinity. The girls intend to camp along the way.

SCHOOL ATHLETES HAVE BUSY SCHEDULE AHEAD

Neenah—High school athletes will enter the Lawrence college invitation track meet to be held May 19 at Appleton. A dual meet with the Kaukauna school track team is scheduled for Citizens' Athletic field May 5, provided the track can be put in shape by that time. Scarcity of cinders is delaying the work at the field. The Northeastern conference meet is scheduled for Neenah and the afternoon of May 12, after which an interclass meet will be conducted by Coach Ole Jorgensen. The coach is desirous of producing athletes capable of entering the state meet at Madison and, should any of his men look good by the time of the state meet, he will enter them in some of the events.

NEW SCOUT TROOP
HOLDS FIRST MEETING

Neenah—Troop No. 10, Boy Scouts, organized last week at St. Paul English Lutheran church held its first assembly Thursday night at the church basement. Mr. C. Clark, valley Scout executive, was present to give information as to scout work and to instruct George McElroy, troop scout master, as to his duties. Fifteen boys appeared for the first meeting although the charter list has 25 boys. Meetings are to be held each Thursday night.

ELECT OFFICERS

Neenah—John D. Schmeider was re-elected to the office of trustee for three years, Thursday evening at a meeting of the St. Paul English Lutheran congregation. George Schultz was elected a trustee to take the place of Charles Friedland, who resigned. The term is for two years.

They will be accompanied by William Patrick and William Buchanan of the Appleton scout council.

GOLF PLAYERS TAKE TO LINKS NEXT SUNDAY

Menasha—A group of Menasha, Neenah and Oshkosh members of the Neenah-Menasha Golf club are planning to pay their first visit of the season to the new golf links next Sunday. The course is practically completed and is expected to be ready for use some time during June. Caddies are now being engaged.

BOWLERS DIDN'T BOWL

Menasha—The Fountain Grills and the George Hanu bowling centers which were entered in the North Side Community Alleys tournament at Green Bay and which went to Green Bay Thursday night to fill their engagement, did not take the alleys because of a mixup in dates.

MENASHA GIRL WINS
FIRST PLACE IN TWO
FORENSIC CONTESTS

Luella Schwartz Is Given Points Far Ahead of All Competitors

Menasha—In the sub-district forensic contest held Thursday afternoon and evening at Menasha high school, Luella Schwartz, of the local school won first place in the declamatory and first place in the expressive reading contest.

Her declamation, "The Minuet," having a French revolution historical background, was given so well that the judges marked her five and six points above all other contestants. Miss Allie Ziebell of the Menasha high school public speaking department is the coach.

Elmer Hrabik, North Fond du Lac, won second in declamatory with the selection, "The Story of Patsy." Marcus Plant, New London, won first place and Leonard Sage, Omro, won second place in extemporaneous speaking. The former talked on "Flood Control" and the latter on "Presidential Candidates."

The Olinsted, Clintonville, with the selection, "Education for Peace," won first place and William Roycraft, Omro, with the selection, "Our Saviors of Men," won second place in oratory. Elizabeth Garot, New London, won second place in expressive reading.

Sixteen schools were represented Thursday in the elimination contest. Winners of first and second places will compete for honors at the final district contest at the Oshkosh state teachers college on May 11. The judges were Miss Florence Leavitt, head of public speaking department, and F. A. Novitski of the Oshkosh state teachers college. A large crowd attended the contest.

Mrs. Arthur Hahnen entertained the Second Ward Royal Neighbor club Thursday evening at her home 316 Broadway. Schafkopf and whist were played and honors at the former game were won by Mrs. Kate Daniels and Mrs. Maud Shaw and at the latter by Mrs. Hahnen and Mrs. Lizzie Stommel. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Charles Hanke.

RECOMMEND ROOM FOR SCHOOL NURSE

Menasha—Miss Edith Olson, field worker of the state bureau of public health nursing, spent Thursday in the city inspecting the work of Miss Carolyn Schmittman, local school nurse. She found the work to be satisfactory and examined the detailed reports kept in the office. A room for the school nurse was recommended. Miss Olson also commented favorably on the appreciative attitude of the pupils in regard to the school nurse's suggestions, also on the general good health among the pupils.

USE BENEFIT FUNDS FOR SUMMER CAMP

Menasha—Benefit performances will be given Friday and Saturday evenings at the Neenah theatre for the Boy Scouts. The money derived from these plays and from the sale of food houses which the boys have constructed, will make up a fund being raised for improvement at the summer camp on the east shore of Lake Winnebago.

BROACH PLANS TO DEEPEN RIVER BED WITH OWN CURRENT

Eads, Noted Engineer, Says Erection of Pile Dikes Would Stop Floods

Yakima, Wash. — (AP) — A plan for controlling the Mississippi by making the mighty river dig its own bed deeper by means of pile dikes is to be brought to the attention of congress. The method is that suggested years ago by James Buchanan Eads, celebrated engineer, who designed the jetties at the mouth of the river. Its present sponsor is W. G. Price, Yakima engineer who worked with Eads and who intends to offer the scheme to congress through the national flood commission and the ways and means committee.

Reforestation and reservoirs would be of little assistance in regulating the Mississippi, Price says, because most of the rainfall in the river basin occurs below points where such aids could be placed. No levees are safe from breaking, in his opinion, and the higher the levee the greater the catastrophe if it collapses, he declares. "The problem can be solved," Price explains, "only by causing the current to dig deeper so that the carrying capacity of the river will be sufficiently increased to render high levees unnecessary. The only way the Mississippi can be forced to do that is to prevent the caving of the banks by a revetment which the stream cannot move, sink or destroy. This task may take more years than most of us have to live and should have been begun in 1883 when Eads, then president of the Mississippi river commission, wanted to build that type of revetment."

The pile dikes suggested by Price would consist of a series of large wooden cribs filled with willows, timber and rocks and covered with woven willow mattresses. "The banks between the proposed dikes," Price asserts, "will cave in a river bed, forming a scalloped shore but I have noticed that the amount of this caving is limited. The greater the distance between the dikes the larger and deeper the scallop, and the deeper the scallop the farther the river has to travel. This reduces the velocity, so the stream will take a short cut from dike to dike and produce an add in the scallop with insufficient velocity to cause further caving of the bank."

"The space between dikes may vary from one-fourth mile in sharp bends to a mile or more in long bends. Where there is a long, sharp bend or loop or a cutoff should be made which will increase the velocity and power of the river to dig deeper. "Spur dikes can be so constructed that they will not be wrecked by the high velocity water from a cutoff." Price asserts that two dams of this construction which he built in the Atchafalaya River forty years ago are still in service. "After this year's flood," he says, "engineers stated that these dams were all that prevented the Mississippi from leaving its channel and going to the Gulf by this short route."

OFFER PRIZES FOR BEST SAFETY POSTER

American Legion Sponsoring Contest to Promote Safety for Children

Appleton children attending parochial or public schools will have an opportunity to enter the American Legion poster contest being sponsored by the state department of the organization. The contest is to acquaint children with traffic hazards. Contestants will be limited to grade school children. Oney Johnston post of the legion will push the campaign following its next meeting early in May. Prizes will be awarded the boy or girl having the best poster. First prize will bring $25, second $20, third $15, fourth $10, fifth $5, sixth $3, seventh $2 and eighth $1. The rules of the contest are that contestants must be students of a private, parochial or public grade school including the eighth grade; posters submitted shall be limited to topics on traffic and public safety. The emblem of the American Legion or the American Legion road sign must be incorporated in the poster. The colors of the sign and emblem are specified in literature obtainable from the state department of the legion. The contest closes May 18 and posters should be sent to Miss Cora E. Brown, secretary of the American Legion auxiliary, 610 W. Morgan-st., Milwaukee. The size should be about 15 by 20 inches.

Dakota 'Outlaw' Trader Makes Big Fortune By Unique Way Of Dealing

The Outlaw Trading Post of Ben Butts (lower right) at Winner, S. D., is no ordinary mercantile establishment. In a shack a block square he sells anything from pins to harvesters, and the store has earned him a fortune in the town where he lived by shovelling snow in 1920. At the left is Mrs. Butts with some of the customers who come from surrounding ranch and reservation country.

Winner, S. D. — (AP) — In Winner, at the end of the railroad and the gate way to the Rosebud cattle country, a self-styled "outlaw" who made his living at odd jobs eight years ago has developed a retail business when has made him one of the leading taxpayers of South Dakota. Ben Butts is the "outlaw," and he owns and operates the Outlaw Trading Post, which sells anything from a hairpin to a tractor. His customers are ranchers and farmers in some of the last Indian reservation territory opened in the United States. Eight years ago Butts landed in Winner broke but eager to work. He was winter. All he could find to do was shovel snow. He cleared banks eight feet deep from storefront sidewalks at 50 cents a store front and when he had enough money he bought a podder's outfit. Presently, he found that he had made $134, and he invested it in a shack and a stock of merchandise. Today he is reckoned in Winner as having personal and commercial assets of around a million dollars.

Butts' principal store is in Winner, at the end of the railroad line. He has five branches to which he trucks supplies. He makes no pretense of building fine stores. His places of business are shacks in the true sense of the word—simple, sturdy structures of sun-blasted boards.

His advertising methods are as picturesque as the career he has carved out for himself. There is an "Outlaw" rodeo, an "Outlaw" baseball team, basketball team, orchestra and band. When Butts first started his store he kept it open 24 hours a day. Now that competition has abated, he has put his establishments on an 18-hour day.

ONCE UPON A TIME

Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, is again called before the Walsh investigating committee. He speaks this way:

"In view of the fact that the testimony in the Sinclair conspiracy trial is over, I will be very glad to answer any questions."

He is certainly frank, even to the point of being blunt, or crude, whichever you like to call it. Stewart refused to speak out until after his friend, Sinclair, was out of danger. Up to that time his lips presented a straight line of compressed silence. To this extent he puts himself above the government, greater than the power of its subpoena. This is a situation that can hardly be permitted to go unchallenged.

But the Walsh investigating committee is finding out more each day about that ghostly company known as the Continental Trading Company of Canada. Mr. Stewart now admits that he was the mysterious fourth person who was to share in its millions of profits but the why and the wherefore are still shrouded in doubt. When questioned as to the reason why he received the delivery of $759,500.00 of the profits of this Canadian company Mr. Stewart said that the president of the company called on him and told him he was to receive a fourth share of the profits. Certainly kind of the president and of the company. But, continued the witness, "I told him that I did not want any of the profits but he said it had been arranged that I should get them." And certainly modest of Mr. Stewart to try to avoid the burden of receiving so much money. But the question occurs, why was it arranged that the president of this Canadian company would pour into Mr. Stewart's lap this fortune? Of course, Mr. Stewart hasn't the least idea. The company was apparently an eleemosynary institution just formed for the purpose of doing good and spreading hundreds of thousands of dollars around and into the pockets of good looking men who hadn't the least idea what it was all about.

But Secretary of the Treasury Mellon had been doing some gum-shoe work. He had been on the trail of this huge amount of bonds and had ascertained that no coupons had been cut from them since December, 1923. Apparently the owner didn't want his interest. But, says Mr. Stewart, "I did not cut the coupons in order to avoid publicity, the newspapers were carrying a lot about this matter." He had waived the immediate collection of over $120,000.00 in interest, not of course that there was anything wrong in the matter, but that he wished to avoid being in the public limelight.

It is an innocent, a guileless tale, reminding of the Englishman who wrote a poem about "an idiot boy," only to have others conceive the bard as the hero of the story.

The whole thing speaks profoundly of an ulterior purpose, a hidden scheme, a plan that was to be kept secret and by that very token confessing impropriety.

The public has conceived the idea that huge profits were diverted to the Continental Trading Company for the purpose of thereafter using them to influence and corrupt the government. This may not be the correct conclusion and seemingly is not, else why should the company have immediately divided those profits into four equal parcels? The fact that Sinclair used his share to make "presents" to Secretary Fall is not necessarily an indication that Mr. Stewart was aware of the purpose, yet it seems clear that there existed a motive behind the formation of the Canadian company that has not yet been exposed, a motive that still keeps Blackmer and O'Neil examining ancient ruins in Europe. If anyone is able to sense or discover that motive it is quite likely to be Senator Walsh.

The contest against corruption in high places is not a battle but more like a war, a series of battles, and the acquittal of

Sinclair will not and must not stop the onward march against the forces of evil. Even if our people do not like to put their multi-millionaires in prison, shearing them of any gain or profit through these transactions, compelling them to lose the millions of improvements they put into the property and keeping them constantly blinking into the light of publicity, will not convince them that the game has been successful by any means.

EMPIRE SHOPPING

The last week in April is family shopping week for the British empire. Members of that imperial group of democracies are supposed to enter upon a shopping orgy, buying things from each other instead of from outsiders.

Canada, interesting to us in such a role because of her nearness and buying power, is playing the game enthusiastically. "Cooperation, coordination and patriotism" is her motto. Everywhere in the dominion are placards calling for the "big push." There are "myriads of gaily flaunting red, white and blue banners, flags, crests and a multiplicity of other advertising decorations, radio broadcasting, newspaper advertising, talks in theatres, service clubs and schools, and prizes for essays and window displays."

That's all right. Members of a family should patronize each other. Happy is the family which, like the British empire, is big and varied enough to supply all its members with nearly everything they need by friendly interchange.

Nevertheless Canada will doubtless continue Uncle Sam's best customer, with England next and the minor dominions trailing. However strong patriotism may be, economic law—alias human nature—is stronger still. So patriots will continue buying where they can get what they need most advantageously. That is good for everybody concerned. Nations grow rich as well by trading with each other as by domestic trade.

VANISHED LEADERS

High school and college graduates have been the subject of many a joke because of their idealism and faith in their own ability to right the wrongs of the world. Cartoonists along in June are much given to showing the hopeful young things grasping diplomas and gazing at rosy clouds. Then what happens? Apparently harsh contacts with the world change a lot of their romantic ideas. Or perhaps their ideals were not built on sufficiently solid foundations. Anyhow, they seem to disappear.

"The despair of a person in public life," said Newton D. Baker, addressing a gathering of college registrars, "is the fact that when a great crisis arises, there seems to be a lack of coherence among the educated classes which keeps them from concentrating on the right end." The young men and women who should be agitators for the right have turned silent, unaware of the opportunity of leadership when it comes.

"I tell you," continued Mr. Baker, "the challenge to the American college today is to produce valiant wills and devotion of spirit, equipped with education." It is a challenge not only to the colleges, but to parents, to churches, to public officials and civic leaders. The young people have the ideals for a while. It is to the shame of their elders that they lose faith in the effectiveness of those ideals.

THE MULTIPLE JUMP

It was thrilling, that "multiple jump" taken the other day by 10 rookies in the army air service. They all leaped from a big plane in full flight, in the space of eight seconds, dropping by parachute and landing safely.

It must have looked like a big family of flying squirrels driven suddenly out of a hollow tree-top by schoolboys. Those rookies were good soldiers. And the experiment was useful and rather reassuring. But not entirely reassuring. There is something about buckling on a parachute life-preserver and receiving instructions about jumping and waiting two seconds before pulling the rip-cord that makes a land-lubber just a little uneasy.

In case of fire, naturally there has to be some jumping. Otherwise passengers would feel better about it if there were a parachute for the airplane itself.

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writer's names are never printed. Only inquiries of general interest are answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

THE MEASLES AT SCHOOL

Measles is the most damning evidence against the reactionary public health practice that recognizes a noninfectious illness under the name of the "common cold."

In the first three days of illness, the victim too often purports to have "a common cold," and in some schools the health and education boards countenance "the common cold," or worse yet, leave the question of isolation of the individual to the discretion of the principal. If the principal happens to cherish fine old fashioned ideas, the ailing one may be kept right in school. This happened in an instance I observed. There was more or less an epidemic, and a youngster came to school with an alleged "cold." Something about the redness of the child's eyes aroused the teacher's suspicions. The teacher could only send the child to the principal for decision. The principal sent the child back to class with a gentle rebuke to the teacher for suspecting measles. However, two days later the child was down with measles, and within 10 days a dozen other pupils in the same class room were coming down with measles. That's how measles is cultivated in schools. If the local health authorities had not acquiesced in the idea that alleged "colds" are noncommunicable, the principal could have had no excuse for permitting the child to remain in school to spread the disease, precisely as though the child were the year 1920. Should any of the children who were thus wrongfully infected with measles develop pneumonia or tuberculosis and fail to get well, would not the child's parents have a just cause for action against the principal of the school and against the health authorities of the town for permitting such a ruthless thing to happen? I wonder whether the principal or the health officer could, if summoned, prove that there is such an entity as "the common cold," infectious or noninfectious. If they couldn't prove it—and I believe they couldn't—then how could they justify the crime by pleading that they thought the first case was "just a cold?"

Physicians have long known that in many cases it is possible to recognize or positively diagnose measles 24 to 48 hours before the rash appears, by finding Koplik's spots, characteristic little red spots on the lining of the cheeks and lips, each spot having a bluish white center. Of course teachers or nurses are not capable of recognizing such signs, but in any case of coryza or alleged "cold in the head" or running nose or acute "catarrh" or acute rhinitis, especially when there is also some cough and some conjunctivitis (the three C's—coryza, cough, conjunctivitis), measles should be suspected. The conjunctivitis is manifest in redness of the eyes.

The incubation period in measles is usually about 10 days—the time elapsing from the moment of infection to the time when the child begins to be ill. The first sign of illness is usually fever, to be detected only by thermometer; then after 19 hours, red eyes, cough, Koplik's spots, and after three days of illness the rash.

Measles is most contagious in the period of invasion, the three days of illness before the rash appears. For this reason the reactionary health authorities and the backward school principals apparently do not care a damn. They've always cultivated measles and other respiratory infections in school, and they're always going to.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Wrong Dope

A few days ago I went to a popular drug store and asked for a bottle of powdered hair, but a clerk gave me one powdered by mistake. I used it twice as a face wash and once dissolved in water to shampoo my hair, before I discovered the mistake. My face is badly chapped and my hair seems to be falling out a lot. What shall I do? (E. R.)

Answer—Do nothing. In a few days any irritation may have caused will have passed. I don't see why you used or wished to use pomphox on your face or hair, but no serious harm could come from the mistake.

Still More Coffee Lore

Your articles are always interesting in one way or another, and as we think, one of the features that makes ours a delightful paper. You are correct in saying the good coffee is hard to obtain. Probably you are one of the fortunate minority who are able to afford 350 moids and 1350 cools, and so you do not get out of bed cold winter mornings half an hour earlier in order to make coffee after your own recipe. However, I could never understand why egg white, whole egg, or egg shells should be used in making coffee. I can make a cup of coffee in six minutes even you know how, like, Dr. Brady, and without any egg. I should like the pleasure of your company at a coffee drinking bee. Yours for better and bigger coffee establishments. (S. E. P. Jr.)

Answer—Sold. I'll trickle around your way soon, with due and proper advance notice, and test your brew. But it doesn't take half an hour to make coffee any way. It need take no longer than is necessary to grind the coffee, toss it in the pot, set on fire, and bring to a boil or almost, then as soon as it cools enough so it will not crack the pot or melt the glaze, it is ready to serve. I don't know any more than you do about the reason for adding egg white, whole egg, or egg shells—we have just assumed that this "settles" the coffee, but maybe it is unsound.

LIBRARY ADVENTURES

By Arnold Mulder

NEGRO "MORALITY" TALES

A book was published the other day by Roark Bradford that has, I suspect, far greater importance than appears on the face of it. It is called "Old Man Adam An' His Chillin'." The author recently won recognition as the writer of the winning story in the O. Henry prize award, with his story, "Child of God," the study of a negro's thoughts while he is being executed for murder.

"Old Man Adam" does not look "deep" and does not seem to have any meaning beyond the highly amusing narrative. But it may well be that it has the same significance that we to day attach to the old "Morality Plays" that antedated Shakespeare by several hundreds of years. There is in fact a striking similarity of mood and treatment between the two. If the stories in "Old Man Adam" are authentic, that is, if they are faithful transcripts of the south the most ignorant negroes in the south "get" the familiar Bible stories and how they tell them again, then the book is a document that has great literary importance.

The oldtime "Morality Plays" did exactly the same thing. In that day in England almost no one could read or write. The Bible stories came to the masses by word of mouth. It was inevitable they should be all mixed up and often grotesquely topsy-turphy. The drama instinct of the people caused them to stage these Bible stories at their public festivals, and there we have the foundation of English drama.

Anyone reading the "Morality Plays" today in their quaint English is often shocked by the way the Bible narratives were treated. God is a benighted man, the devil a clown who pitches souls into the fire. Moses and Job and David and all the others are made in the image of the English of that day, talking in the dialect of the day and expressing the ideas of the time.

The conditions that gave rise to the stories in "Old Man Adam" are almost identical except of course that the tales are told by negroes, not by the Englishmen of the middle ages. These negroes can neither read nor write. The Bible narratives come to them by word of mouth. Inevitably the narrators get all mixed up and also inevitably they reduce the universe to the township in which they spend their whole lives. Like the old Englishmen, these negroes take the Bible stories very seriously, but they are treated with a rough and ready humor that frequently shocks the reverend reader.

In those stories God is not at all the Jehovah of the Bible but a benighted southern squire with a little goat. The devil is not exactly a clown, as he often was in the old "Morality Plays," but neither is he the wicked one so familiar in the written Bible records. He is rather mischievous—probably because the negro finds it hard to understand the devil of the Bible because he is too happy-go-lucky himself. He makes these two characters over in his own image.

And he does the same thing with all the Bible characters. They are startlingly real to him—much more real than they probably are to millions who have read the stories in the Bible all their lives. But they did not live in far-off Palestine; they lived right here in their own township. Moses and Job and David and the others go to fish-fries. They get mixed up in every conceivable tangle. They talk familiarly about cotton picking.

The book is startling and amusing and possibly important. This latter, as I said, depends on whether the stories are authentic, literal transcripts of negro Bible stories. It is startling because it treats the familiar Bible stories in a way that makes even the most liberal reader gasp sometimes. It is amusing providing the reader has imagination enough to recreate the circumstances under which the stories are told. Their seeming lack of the reverent attitude may spoil them for many. But if they are approached in the spirit in which we approach the "Morality Plays," as valuable human documents, they are both amusing and instructive.

Editor, Post-Crescent: Recently at a meeting of the Common Council Alderman Philipp Vogt presented a matter to which the Council might well give its very thoughtful consideration.

In referring to the paving program for this year Alderman Vogt stated that the City Council pursue a policy which, in the construction of all public improvements, would assure the employment of local labor at a living wage. That Appleton's unemployed should be given the first consideration in the construction of any public work needs no argument. It has not always been done, however, and often when local labor was employed it was on a scale of wage far below what might be termed a living wage. It is natural that a contractor should seek labor at the lowest possible wage. It is much easier to procure a cheap grade of labor in the larger cities where there are great communities of immigrants and the scale of living is far below that of Appleton's working classes. It is a known fact that some contractors in the past, working upon our public projects, have paid their common labor a wage as low as thirty and thirty-five cents an hour. Even the most credulous person would agree that no man can support and educate a family on such an income. It hardly affords a bare existence. It may be argued that the specifying of a minimum wage, such as fifty cents an hour, would afford an opportunity to an unconscionable contractor to make his bid for the work much higher and attempt to justify it by the compulsory wage requirement. Keen competition exists and should protect against such a contingency. In the event, however, that it does not do so, there is nothing in the law to prevent the City from doing its own work, hiring its own men and buying its own materials. The profit of the contractor would be thus eliminated and the benefit would enure to the common laborer.

Our City government is established primarily to promote the general welfare of all the people in the community. Those citizens who are in more fortunate financial circumstances are usually able to take care of themselves and it remains for the government to lend its protecting hand to the balance. Every resident should be proud of Appleton, but it is not given a living wage he cannot meet the taxes that are levied in this community. The Council should realize this and should be insistent that in public works over which it has full control, there shall be no wage paid which does not permit a man to live respectably.

Alderman Vogt is to be highly commended for the thought and consideration he has given to this important question. Without the question of a doubt, he voices in this particular the opinion of not only his own constituents but of the Sixth Ward, but of every thinking citizen in Appleton.

A Citizen.

See-Sawing On Broadway

By Gilbert Swan

New York—Scattered notes from a ramble about Manhattan. . . . A jewel-studded lighter in a Fifth Avenue window priced at $1000. . . . And I'll wager that it fails to work quite as often as does my $1.98 model. . . . The swanky young ladies who casually lead their "daddies" past the Rolls-Royce show room. . . . The organ grinder with the trained parrot who blocks traffic almost nightly at Times Square. . . . If he'd have an arm amputated he'd be the living replica of Long John Silver. . . . The hostess who operates among the graves in the old Trinity churchyard at the foot of Broadway. . . . And the fellow in Times Square who slips you cards telling of the "wild time" to be had at such-and-such a secret rendezvous. . . . A troupe of vaudeville midgets out for a walk and looking like people of the Middle Ages. . . . A sideshow giant out strolling with his sweetie. . . . The quick-money racket that has sprung up on Broadway. . . . Everything from fake auctions to fake stock racketeers. . . . The increasing number of attractive girls one sees staggering about the side streets in these prohibition days. . . . Most of the Manhattan speakies now let women come into the bars. . . . And pay no attention to age, seemingly. . . . It's pretty depressing at times.

Speaking of speakies and prohibition, New Jersey is now the favorite Saturday night commuting point for seekers of what Walter Winchell has named "single water. . . . Weehawken, but a five-cent ferry dare away, has become almost nationally famous for its steak-and-beer emporiums. Jersey City operates with the lid completely lifted. There is not even the pretense of doorbells and secret passwords which most of Manhattan demands. One after another the swinging doors of bar rooms invite patronage. No questions are asked. . . . Breweries are reported to be operating full time and New York is supplied largely from "across the river."

Jersey City seems to be one of the last stands of the old-fashioned girl-and-beer hall. There still are pianos that play for a nickel and girls who can be danced with for two-bits and a loud-voiced host who constantly invites visitors to "buy another round."

Folks from the "old home town" invariably turn-out in young regiments whenever a son or daughter of the old neighborhood makes good in New York. Ofttimes, as in the case of Marian Talley, the home town will hire a private train and come all the way to Manhattan to give the little girl a hand.

Shrewd concert managers and producers use this sense of civic pride to swell their audiences. Practically every state has a society in New York and most of the big cities are represented by clubs. Whenever a promoter learns the home town has a former he circulates these societies and generally they turn out on masse.

Which reminds me that one of the most talked-of paintings being exhibited in New York at the present moment is not another of the ultra-modernist importations from Europe, but a pastoral reproduction of "the old tavern at Hammondsville, Ohio," by Charles Burchfield.

DAILY HINTS FOR HEALTH

MILK LOSES VALUABLE SALTS WHEN BOILED

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

From time to time experiments have been made in the feeding of milk changing the form or the preparation and studying the effects on children fed with this most complete of human foods.

Experiments have been reported which show that the boiling of milk interferes somewhat with its content of mineral salts, particularly calcium and phosphorus, and that young animals fed on heated milk alone are likely to develop rickets.

When children are fed on boiled milk they must be given increasing quantities of cod liver oil in order to improve the growth-promoting properties, which are to some extent destroyed by the heating of the milk.

Milk is almost depended upon by the child in many places for getting its supply of iodine. Although the supply of iodine necessary to the human body is relatively small in amount, it must be kept up to a definite level or the child will develop symptoms related to the thyroid gland.

Investigators in a medical research institute in Aberdeen have now carried out a series of experiments to find out what happens to the iodine in milk when the food is boiled before serving.

It was found that heat would cause 20 per cent or more of all the iodine in milk to pass into the air by volatilization. This, of course, represents a fairly serious loss to the child that takes the milk.

While these considerations are of great importance so far as they relate to the feeding of the infant, they are not, of course, fundamental in relationship to the taking of milk by adults.

The grown up person does not depend on any single food substance in his diet. He is likely to supplement milk or any other food that he may take by a wider variety of meats, cereals and vegetables.

Although milk is the most perfect of foods, it is not absolutely perfect, since it lacks greatly some of the mineral salts necessary to life and is not even complete in its content of vitamins.

More and more it is becoming to be realized that the only safety in diet is a well balanced diet with some of all the important food substances. (Copyright, 1928, NEA Service, Inc.)

CHAPTER LXIII

"Society unfortunately isn't ready for your nihilistic philosophy just yet," said Markham. "And during the intervening transition human life must be protected."

He rose resolutely, and going to the telephone, called up Heath. "Sergeant," he ordered, "get a John-Doe warrant and meet me immediately at the Stuyvesant Club. Bring a man with you—there's an arrest to be made."

"At last the law was evidence after its own heart," chirped Vance, as he lazily donned his top-coat and picked up his hat and stick. "What a grotesque affair your legal procedure is, Markham! Scientific knowledge—the facts of psychology—mean nothing to you learned Solons. But a phonograph record—ah! There, now, is something convincing irrefragable, final, what?"

On our way out Markham beckoned the officer on guard. "Under no conditions," he said, "is any one to enter this apartment until I return—not even with a signed permit."

When we had entered the taxi cab, he directed the chauffeur to the club. "So the newspapers want action, do they? Well, there's going to get it. . . . You've helped me out of a nasty hole, old man."

As he spoke, his eyes turned to Vance. And that look conveyed a profounder gratitude than any words could have expressed.

(Tuesday, September 1: 3:30 p. m.) It was exactly half past three when we entered the rotunda of the Stuyvesant Club. Markham at once sent for the manager, and held a few words of private conversation with him. The manager then hastened away, and was gone about five minutes.

"Mr. Spotswoode is in his rooms," he informed Markham, on returning. "I sent the electrician up to test the light bulbs. He reports that the gentleman is alone, writing at his desk."

"And the room number?" "Three forty-one." The manager appeared perturbed. "There won't be any fuss, will there, Mr. Markham?" "I don't look for any," Markham's tone was chilly. "However, the present matter is considerably more important than your club."

"What an exaggerated point of view!" sighed Vance when the manager had left us. "The arrest of Spotswoode, I'd say, was the work of a fool. The man isn't a criminal, don't you know. He's what one might term a philosophic behaviorist."

Markham grunted but did not answer. He began pacing up and down agitatedly, keeping his eyes expectantly on the main entrance. Vance sought his eyes ex-3234234340000 sought a comfortable chair, and settled himself in it with placid unconcern.

Ten minutes later Heath and Snitkin arrived. Markham at once led them into an alcove and briefly explained his reason for summoning them.

"Spotswoode's up stairs now," he said. "I want the arrest made as quietly as possible."

"Spotswoode!" Heath repeated the name in astonishment. "I don't see . . ."

"You don't have to see — yet," Markham cut in sharply. "I'm taking all responsibility for the arrest. And you're getting the credit—if you want it. That suit you?"

Heath shrugged his shoulders. "It's all right with me."

"Anything you say, sir?" He shook his head uncomprehendingly. "But what about Jessup?"

"We'll keep him locked up. Material witness."

We ascended in the elevator and emerged at the third floor. Spotswoode's rooms were at the end of the hall, facing the Square. Markham, his face set grimly, led the way.

In answer to his knock Spotswoode opened the door and greeted us pleasantly, stepped aside for us to enter.

"Any news yet?" he asked, moving a chair forward.

At this moment he got a clear view of Markham's face in the light, and at once he sensed the minatory nature of our visit. Though his expression did not alter, I saw his body suddenly go taut. His cold, indecipherable eyes moved slowly from Markham's face to Heath and Snitkin. Then his gaze fell on Vance and me, who were standing a little behind the others, and he nodded stiffly.

No one spoke; yet I felt that an entire tragedy was somehow being enacted and that each actor heard and understood every word.

Markham remained standing, as if reluctant to proceed. Of all the duties of his office, I knew that the arrest of malefactors was the most distasteful to him. He was not a worldly man, with all the worldly man's tolerance for the misfortunes of evil.

Heath and Snitkin had stepped forward and now waited with passive alertness for the district attorney's order to serve the warrant.

Spotswoode's eyes were again on Markham.

"What can I do for you, sir?" His voice was calm and without the faintest quaver.

"I can accompany these officers, Mr. Spotswoode," Markham told him quietly, with a slight inclination of his head toward the two imperturbable figures at his side. "I arrest you for the murder of Margaret Odell."

"Ah!" Spotswoode's eyebrows lifted mildly. "Then you have—discovered something?"

"The Froehoven Andante."

Not a muscle of Spotswoode's face moved; but after a short pause he made a barely perceptible gesture of resignation.

"I can't say that it was wholly unexpected," he said evenly, with the tragic suggestion of a smile, "especially as you thwarted every effort of mine to secure the record. But then . . . the fortunes of the game are always uncertain."

His smile faded, and his manner became grave. "You have acted generously toward me, Mr. Markham, in shielding me from the canaille; and because I appreciate that courtesy I should like you to know that the game I played was one in which I had no alternative."

"Your motive, however powerful," said Markham, "cannot extenuate your crime."

"Do you think I seek extenuation?" Spotswoode dismissed the imputation with a contemptuous gesture. "I'm not a schoolboy. I calculated the consequences of my course of action, and after weighing the various factors involved, decided to risk it."

"It was a gamble, to be sure; but it's not my habit to complain about the misfortunes of a deliberately planned risk. Furthermore, the choice was practically forced upon me. Had I not gambled in this instance, I stood to lose heavily, nevertheless."

His face grew bitter. "This woman, Mr. Markham, had demanded the impossible of me. Not content with bleeding me financially, she demanded legal protection, position, social prestige—such things as only my name could give her."

"She informed me I must divorce my wife and marry her. I wonder if you apprehend the enormity of that demand? . . . You see, Mr. Markham, I love my wife, and I have children whom I love. I will not insult your intelligence by explaining how, despite my conduct, such a thing is entirely possible. . . . And yet, this woman commanded me to wreck my life and crush utterly those I hold dear, solely to gratify her petty, ridiculous ambition!"

"When I refused, she threatened to expose our relations to my wife, to send her copies of the letters I had written, to sue me publicly—in fine, to create such a scandal that, in any event, my life would be ruined, my family disgraced, my home destroyed."

He paused and drew a deep inspiration.

"I have never been partial to half-way measures," he continued impassively. "I have no talent for compromise. Perhaps I am a victim of my heritage. But my instinct is to play out a hand to the last chip—to force whatever danger threatens."

"And for just five minutes, a week ago, I understood how the fanatics of old could, with a calm mind and a sense of righteousness, torture their enemies who threatened them with spiritual destruction. . . . I chose the only course which might save those I love from disgrace and suffering. It meant taking a desperate risk. But the blood within me was such that I did not hesitate, and I was fired by the agony of a tremendous hate. I staked my life against a living death, on the remote chance of attaining peace. And I lost."

Again, he smiled faintly.

"Yes—the fortunes of the game. . . . But don't think for a minute that I am complaining or seeking sympathy. I have lied to others perhaps, but not to myself. I detest a whiner—a self-excuser. I want you to understand that."

He reached to the table at his side and took up a small limp-leather volume.

"Only last night I was reading Wilde's 'De Profundis.' Had I been gifted with words, I might have made a similar confession. Let me show you what I mean, so that, at least, you won't attribute to me that final infamy of cravenness."

CAN'T ORDER RAILROAD TO REMOVE TRACKS

Madison—(AP)—The state railroad commission finds it has no authority to order the Illinois Central railroad to remove its spur track on Racine street in Monroe. If such authority exists, the commission believes it is vested in the city. It appears, the commission says, that there is vested in citizens power to impose reasonable regulations in the interest of safety and welfare of the citizens, but declines to express an opinion on whether the city of Monroe can require the railroad to remove its track.

CONSTIPATION PREYS ON HEALTH

You can overcome it with ALL-BRAN

If you are troubled with constipation, read Mrs. Hogan's letter below. It came to us unsolicited—a message of relief to every sufferer:

February 12, 1927
 "I want to tell you how much good your ALL-BRAN has done me. It surely can't be beat for constipation. I have tried every kind of medicine and never in my whole life have been relieved until one of my neighbors told me to try bran. So I bought a box and read about your ALL-BRAN and thought I would see what it would do—and it surely did help me. I will never be without it in the house again."

Mrs. JOSEPH HOGAN,
 1215 Clay St., Topeka, Kansas.

Constipation is almost universal. The cause of more than forty diseases. Dizziness, aching backs, circled eyes, bad complexions, are only a few of its symptoms.

Guard against it. Start tomorrow eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Two tablespoonfuls daily in cereal cases, with every meal. Guaranteed. Doctors recommend it.

A healthful cereal. Serve ALL-BRAN with milk or cream—and add fruits or honey. Sprinkle it into soups. Use it in cooking. Sold by all grocers. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

MARYE and "MOM" Their Letters

BY RUTH DEWEY GROVES

Marye, my dear:

Haven't you any feeling of responsibility at all toward Florence? How can you let her risk the influence of a man such as you describe this artist Michello to be? After all, even though she does consider herself sophisticated and a close friend, to provide about the stories of his past. Do you want to see him make a conquest of your sister-in-law?

You said once that we didn't protect girls well enough when you were growing up, but let me tell you. Marye, that trusting a girl with a nice young man was a different matter with us from trusting her with a lady-killer. We didn't approve of men giving teas, either. Not in my town. It may always have been a fashion in the city but I've been told that there was always a hostess, a near relative or a close friend, to preside at the tea urn for the occasion. Any grown-up man fluttering white, manured hands over a tea tray would have been an object of contempt with us. And certainly no lady ever went to a man's room or home and had tea or dinner with him alone.

They say it's a common practice in the city for men to entertain girls in their apartments without causing gossip. Well, that custom hasn't reached our town and if Florence goes alone to an artist's studio and it is ever found out around here she will be talked about you may be sure.

Her mother is getting anxious to have her come back and I don't know but that I should hint to Mrs. Meredith that she ought to insist upon it. Besides, Betty isn't feeling very well and Clyde is complaining that she is having too much to do. I guess he doesn't like "hatching."

I asked him to stay with us but he refused. He's very independent. I took over a pie to him and one to

Mrs. Meredith. I'm wondering who is going to stay with Betty when the new baby comes. Don't you think you could come out and keep house for Clyde and Junior while she is in the hospital? That would be a great help and maybe Clyde will soon be able to work, and then they can afford a girl for a while after you leave.

Please do look after Florence a little more carefully.

With all my love, MOM.

NEXT: A bit of romance for Florence.

BY SISTER MARY

BREAKFAST — Stewed prunes, cereal, cream, French toast, maple and green peppers, spring onions and syrup, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON — Creamed shrimps, radishes, graham bread, Spanish cream, milk, tea.

DINNER — Planked white fish, martini potatoes, buttered green beans, fresh asparagus salad, chocolate cake, milk, coffee.

Infinite care must be taken in cooking asparagus for a salad. Tie the stalks after trimming and scraping in small bundles and cook, standing with heads out of water for twenty minutes. Then lay bundles flat and cook until heads are tender but not broken or mushy. Lift from water in which vegetable was cooked and plunge into cold water. Cool quickly. Save the water in which the asparagus was cooked as well as the tough ends which were cut from the stalks. They can be used for a soup.

CREAMED SHRIMPS, GREEN PEPPERS

Two green peppers, 1 1/2 cups freshly cooked or canned shrimps, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 cups milk, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper.

Parboil peppers and rub off skin. Remove seeds and white pith and mince flesh. Melt butter, stir in flour and slowly add milk, stirring constantly. Add salt and pepper and bring to the boiling point. Add prepared peppers and shrimps cleaned and cut in halves. Let stand over hot water for ten minutes to thoroughly heat added material and serve in a border of steamed rice or on squares of hot buttered toast.

THE TINYMITES

By Hal Cochran

THE dwarfs were having heaps of fun. Each one would grab a ball and run, and throw it out across the ground toward some bowling pins. The stone man said, "That's how they play, and exercise the live long day."

Household Hints

CLEAN BLANKETS
All blankets should be washed before packed away for the summer. Use tepid water and soap flakes and dry over a line. Brush the nap up when dry and fold over cardboard to keep from wrinkling.

CRUMB OMELET
Bread crumb omelet is delicious. Soak a half cup crumbs in equal amount of milk. Add four well-beaten eggs, season, and bake in buttered dish.

LEMON 'N' PRUNES
A delectable variation of lemon pie is lemon and prune. Use one and one-half cups pitted stewed prunes with a regular lemon filling recipe.

FURNITURE FOG
Flower vases often make white spots or "fog" on furniture. Remove this by wiping with a cloth wrung out in ammonia, dry thoroughly and polish with furniture polish.

RHUBARB PUNCH
Cook one quart of rhubarb without sugar. Boil for five minutes one cup sugar, one of water, six cloves, one-inch stick cinnamon and some ginger root. Add this to strained rhubarb, chill and serve.

MEASURING FAT
The most important factor in making delicious cakes and pies is accurate measuring. Fat should be packed in to the mark on a cup or four level tablespoons allowed to each quarter cup.

MINT SALAD
To give a tang to a spring salad, add some chopped mint leaves to French dressing and serve over lettuce, tomatoes and cucumbers.

REST PERIODS
The housewife needs a rest period in the first warm days more than any other time. A fifteen-minute rest before lunch is most refreshing.

Health Basis Of Talent Says Mother Of Prodigy

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fourth of a series of five articles written for the Appleton Post-Crescent and NEA Service by mothers of famous children. In observance of National Child Health Day on May 1, they disclose their principles of child training.

BY MRS. M. MENUHIN
Mother of Yehudi Menuhin, Boy Violinist

Although a good many parents seem to imagine otherwise, there is nothing mystical about the upbringing of a talented child—not of my son Yehudi, anyway. Music has been the life of our family, but since we feel that health is superior even to music, Yehudi and his two younger sisters have been reared to feel that first of all they must keep well. They lead sane, ordered lives. There is no effort to cram them.

Without good health, I doubt if Yehudi would have been able to develop his talent. His art would have suffered with his body. I believe that esthetic attainment, granted native ability and training, is in direct proportion to the health of the body. Dietary fads have no part in our program. Our children eat good, wholesome food and sleep regularly. They drink a great deal of milk and eat quantities of vegetables.

STRESS REGULARITY
This is an average day in our household: rising bell, 7:30; bath; calisthenics; breakfast; music practice and lessons; lunch two or three hours of play in the open air; dinner; evening calisthenics; bed.

We make no effort to force Yehudi to practice. His violin always has been his favorite toy. He practices with the same delight that other boys play. He used to go to bed at 7 o'clock. Not long ago, the hour was changed to 8. His routine is never varied except on Sunday or when he plays a concert. On concert days, he has a nap in the afternoon.

NO RIGID RULES
We never allow the children to feel that they are living by hard and fast rules or that they are being put through a schedule. That would be an unnecessary and fatiguing strain. We do not require system, for we believe that to have time for both work and play requires intelligent application of time.

To be healthy requires intelligent thought. We attempt to deal intelligently with our children. Yehudi has gratified us by his talent but neither of his parents feel that his upbringing is different from that of any normal, healthy child.

LAST YEAR'S GRADS GIVE ALUMNI PROM

The first alumni "prom" ever given in Appleton will be held Saturday evening in the Crystal room of the Conway hotel for alumni of Appleton high school. The "prom" is sponsored by members of the class of 1927. The grand march at 8:30 will be led by William Lee, president of the class, and Miss Agatha Gossens, who also led the grand march at Marquette university this year. The Alma Mater will be played for the grand march.

Music for dancing will be played by an orchestra composed of University of Wisconsin men. Patrons and patronesses for the party will be Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Hehle, Mr. and Mrs. John Roach, Mr. and Mrs. George Dame, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Connolly, Mr. and Mrs. M. Leitch, Mr. and Mrs. E. Voight, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Pugh and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sylvester. O. Myse and A. J. Manier are members of the committee in charge of arrangements.

PARTIES

Old fashioned dances, including circle two steps, old time waltzes and square dances, were enjoyed at the party given for members of Equitable Fraternal Union and their friends Thursday evening at Old Fellow hall. Schultz orchestra played for dancing. Thirty couples attended the party. Arrangements were made by Mrs. August Pardee, Mrs. Anna Dietz, Robert Zwerg and M. J. O'Connor.

Mrs. Lucile VanVyk, 314 E. Hancock-st., entertained 18 guests at dinner at 6:30 Thursday evening in the Blue room of the Conway hotel in honor of her sister, Miss Ileana Rockstroff, whose marriage to Hugh Tscherning of Fresno, Ill., will take place in May. Bridge followed the dinner and prizes were won by Miss Ethel Miller, Mrs. Clyde Art and Mrs. A. Laudert. The Misses Mary and Verna Butler of Chicago were out-of-town guests.

Miss Emily Dachelet and Miss Thelma Thorpe entertained a group of the employees of the Wisconsin Telephone company at a party in honor of Miss Myra Prink Thursday evening at the home of Miss Dachelet, 1518 College-ave. Miss Prink will be married to A. Kaufman on May 1. Bridge was played and prizes were won by Mrs. S. Schernick, Miss Evangeline Wirick, and Miss Maude Krake.

An open card party will be held at Moose temple Tuesday evening under the auspices of the Royal Order of Moose and Ladies of Mooseheart Legion. Cards will begin at 8 o'clock and skat, schafkopf, and bridge will be played.

CHURCH SOCIETIES

Mrs. William Keller talked on the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass at the first meeting of the newly organized Household of St. Philip, Order of Marcha, Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. M. Peters, 1518 My Spencer-dr. Miss Gertrude Wood read of the work of the missionary priests and sisters in New Mexico and Texas. After the program and business session the members sewed carpet rags. The next meeting of the household will be on May 10 at the Catholic home. Mrs. Helen Keating will be chairman of the committee for the meeting.

The Christian Endeavor society of First Congregational church will have a social hour at 6 o'clock Sunday evening. Mrs. E. B. Dunn will be the speaker and her subject will be "His Voice." All members of the congregation and alumni members of the Endeavor have been invited to attend the meeting at which Miss Catherine Barker from Washington and Mrs. Alice Barr from California, former members of the Endeavor, will be present.

LARGE AUDIENCE AT ROUBUSH PIANO RECITAL

A large audience assembled to hear the senior recital of Everett Roubush Thursday evening in Peabody hall. He played a taxing program with excellent technical facility and genuine artistry. Mr. Roubush is a pianist with superior musical and interpretative gifts and enters into his playing with a sincerity and an understanding that is most satisfying. His playing reveals careful training in both the theoretical and musical phases of this study and augurs well for a brilliant future.

The Rubinstein concerto was played in its entirety, and Mr. Roubush was applauded enthusiastically by the large audience of music lovers. Other numbers which found especial favor with the audience were the Liszt Concerto and Sonata del Patraque; Grieg's White Peacock and the Hungarian Arabesque. Mr. Roubush was recalled to the stage many times at the end of each group. Mr. Roubush is a pupil of John Ross Frumpton.

NAME OFFICERS OF MISSION CLUB

Mrs. J. F. Nienstadt was appointed missionary oratorical contest secretary at the meeting of the Womans Missionary society of Emanuel Evangelical church Thursday afternoon at the church. Mrs. Charles Selig was appointed secretary of the chair of missions fund.

Plans were made for a mother and daughter banquet on May 9 at the church. Committees for the banquet will be appointed later. Mrs. N. Zylstra was chairman of the meeting and Mrs. A. Godfrey and Mrs. Richard Koehler had charge of the devotions.

NEW TRAIN SERVICE TO NEW LONDON TO START NEXT SUNDAY

Patrons Desiring Better Service to Milwaukee and Chicago Accommodated

New London—Sunday will see a change of train schedules over the Chicago and Northwestern railroad which will affect New London people considerably. Two new trains are No. 112, the southbound sleeper, which is to be restored to its former run through Shawano, Green Bay and Manitowish enroute from Ashland to Chicago and No. 129, which now arrives from the south at 11:35 in the morning will, after April 29, arrive at 11:23. No. 153, also northbound, which now arrives at 8:15 each evening will hereafter arrive at 8:18. No. 129, which has formerly arrived here evenings at 7:03 will now arrive at 6:44. These trains will be daily except on Sunday.

Two new trains will be substituted for No. 112. They will leave Wausau at 9:15 at night with through sleepers for Milwaukee and Chicago that will be switched to No. 102 at Appleton Junction. This train is due at New London at 12:02 at night. The second substitution will be No. 229, which will leave Appleton Junction with No. 202's crew returning to Wausau, picking up the sleepers at Appleton Junction and passing through New London at 3:22 in the morning. This train will be a new accommodation to New London.

The changes made in train schedules will probably necessitate a similar change of schedule at the local postoffice, though no announcements have been made thus far.

BARBERS USE TALK TO STUDY THEIR PATRONS

Paris—(P)—Why barbers talk so much—if indeed they do—has a new explanation. It is a matter of high art and analytical psychology. So, at least, say defenders of the barbering craft. "How, Monsieur," remarks one, "can I dress your hair so as to express your personality and your character, if you do not talk? How, indeed, can I read your soul if you say nothing? And to learn your thoughts I must talk to make you talk."

Tus, in a hi-hi-flo-mix of mental science and tonsorial art, is the traditional talkativeness of the barber placed well up in the scale of professional accomplishments.

Handling the marcelle irons, trimming an artistic bob, and even giving an ordinary man a good, close shave, say the barbers, are only the equipment of a journeyman. The real art of the game, the tick of drawing out the victim, searching his soul for its true identity, is the mark of the artist, the master coiffeur.

POISON GAS AS RAT KILLER

Rats, the pest of many parts of Europe, are to be fought with poison gas. A Dane has invented a projector which fires cartridges into the haunts infested by the rats. A thick smoke which is given off is harmless to human beings, but is fatal to all rodents within range.

FIFTH OF COLLEGIATES IN LAND GRANT SCHOOLS

Washington—(P)—Approximately fifth of the resident college students in the country are attending land grant colleges, figures collected by the Bureau of Education show. The 52 land grant colleges reported a total of 142,779 resident students in 1927, of which 97,881 were undergraduate men students. Before the war engineering and agriculture were chosen by a large majority of the men. Present enrollments, however, show only 43 per cent in those branches. Since agricultural economic conditions at the time of college entrance are often a determining factor, the report says, it is expected in the future that enrollments, which were affected by the war and the depression in 1921, will again be stabilized and fewer students will be lost to agriculture.

WASHINGTON AMAZED A S VICE PRESIDENT 'BAWLS OUT' SENATE

History Records That Charles
G. Dawes Is Only Man to Do
It

EDITOR'S NOTE: This, the 15th in a series of Presidential Campaign Portraits written for the Post-Crescent by Robert Talley, is the career of Vice President Charles G. Dawes. Tomorrow will begin the story of Frank O. Lowden.

BY ROBERT TALLEY

Washington—So far as history records, the only man who ever bawled out the U. S. Senate to its face is Vice President Charles G. Dawes. Dawes did it on Inauguration Day, March 4, 1925, when he and President Coolidge rode in together on the crest of the Republican landslide. The outburst was an unexpected as a cloud-burst out of a clear sky in the middle of the Sahara desert.

The senators and congressmen were there in their long-tailed coats. The justices of the supreme court were there in their flowing black robes. The foreign diplomats were there in brilliant full-dress uniforms, heavy with gold lace and braid. The cabinet members were there, the chiefs of the army, navy and marine corps were there and so was President Coolidge, who had just taken his own oath outside.

Everybody was waiting to hear the formal speech of acceptance by a new vice president, soon to be submerged in the four years of obscurity for which this office had been famous.

Dawes began. Quickly he turned to scathing condemnation of the Senate rules. Eyes widened as Dawes gained speed, practically calling the senators a bunch of old fossils for operating under antiquated procedure. Senator Jim Reed, Missouri, snickered and then doubled up in convulsions of silent laughter. Dawes became hotter and hotter, louder and louder. Coolidge looked uncomfortable; the gold-laced diplomats looked at the green carpet on the floor.

For several hours after it was over, indignant senators were busy issuing statements in reply. Jim Reed, when asked "what he thought, quoted the old proverb, "It is a waste of lather to shave an ass." Other senators said things equally unkind.

But Dawes, coolly calculating from the first, had won. Newspaper headlines from coast to coast screamed with the vice president's attack on the Senate. That little known and less understood subject of Senate closure became a national topic. People began to discuss it they would the weather or their favorite murder trial.

And so, when Dawes later made speeches urging revision of the antiquated Senate rules and curbing of unlimited debate in the interest of legislative efficiency, he faced interested and informed audiences. Nothing has yet been done about it—a senator may speak until doomsday, if his voice holds out—but at the result of Dawes "super-salemanship" the country now understands.

Dawes entered into the prosaic obscurity of a vice president, his sole duty being to preside over the Senate. Custom does not permit the presiding officer to make a speech, nor does it allow him to cast a vote except in event of a tie.

A short time later the president's nomination of Charles Boecher Warren as attorney general came up for Senate confirmation. The nomination was bitterly contested and the vote was a tie.

Where was Dawes? A senator was acting as presiding officer and the vice president was missing. His vote was needed to break the deadlock. After frantic search, Dawes was found at his home—peacefully taking an afternoon nap. He sped to the capitol in a taxi but arrived too late. Another vote had been taken and Warren's hopes of being the attorney general of the United States had died forever.

By one stroke Dawes strengthened himself with the agricultural west and the banking east when he succeeded in inducing senators to pass the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill and the McFadden banking bill. President Coolidge later killed the Mc-

Nary-Haugen bill with a veto, but that did not detract from Dawes' effort to achieve its passage.

The conference at which this was arranged was held in Dawes' office. "I have asked you to come here," said Dawes, "to see if you cannot bring these two measures to a vote. I am not asking."

A senator arose and obviously started a long-winded speech. "Sit down!" barked Dawes. "There may not be closure in the Senate, but there is in my office."

And proceed they did. Vice President Dawes is wealthy, a heavy investor in public utilities and the Pure Oil Company. For this reason he excused himself from participation in arrangements for a public utility investigation sought by Senator Welch, Montana.

Beneath the fire and brimstone exterior of Dawes lies a home-loving man whose books, paintings and music are his delight. He shuns as many dinner invitations as his office will permit in order to spend his evenings with his wife and their two adopted daughters—Dana, 15, and Virginia, 12.

Their own daughter Carolyn, is now the wife of a former classmate of Dawes' son, who was drowned in 1912.

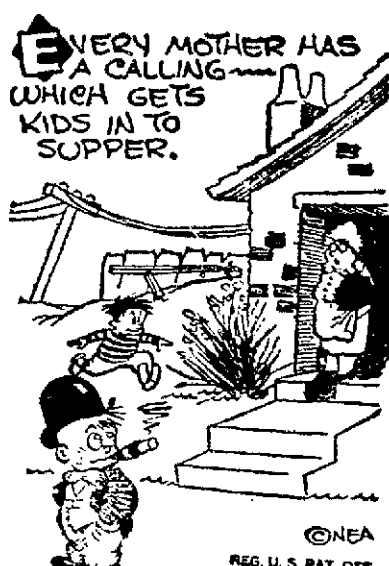

The memory of Rufus Fearing Dawes still lives with his father. All through General Dawes' war diary one finds tender references to him, the wistful hope that he might have lived. The monuments that Dawes has erected in his boys' memory are the Rufus Fearing Dawes hotels for working men in Chicago and Boston.

There the man who is out of a job can get a clean bed for a dime and a full meal for a quarter. In the evenings Dawes often improvises for hours on the piano in his home.

Perhaps, in his musings the vice president dreams of a day when the family circle will gather in the evening around the famous gold piano in the White House after a hard day's work in the executive office with its great circular walls where Roosevelt, Taft, Wilson, Harding and Coolidge have labored.

Who knows? TOMORROW: The story of Frank O. Lowden.

NAME MANITOWOC VET CHAIRMAN OF R. O. T. C.

Manitowoc—(AP)—Major Edward J. Schmidt, of this city, commander of the second Battalion, 127th Infantry, and an overseas veteran of the world war, has been selected by Frank T. Strayer, Indianapolis, commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars for state R. O. T. C. chairman for Wisconsin, it was announced here today.

Major Schmidt will appoint county chairmen to work with men named by the commanding general of the Sixth Corps area and men chosen by the American Legion in securing applicants for the summer training camps.

"The summer training camp is a great idea," Major Schmidt declared today in commenting upon his appointment. "It provides the finest kind of training for a young man that I know of, and without one cent of expense for him."

The Dangerous Drift-over

SMOOTHLY down winter's current in the channel kept clear by the high test qualities of Wadhams 370 —

Then at the spring break-up, drifting over into the common low grades — just because warmer weather seems to make their use a possibility!

Ask some sincere gasoline man for the truth about that spring-time flop which some motor owners so gayly face.

Low grades of gas, promiscuously offered to the careless or unwisely "economical" driver, are NOT made motor-fit by mere temperature change. The fact that they can be forced to start is a false index — for not a single basic element that made them useless in winter can be removed by a mark on the calendar. The heavy unburnable elements remain to wreak their damage one season with another. And no giddy spring-time leap-the-gap in reasoning can change the facts one iota.

Consistent season after season users of enjoy year-round satisfaction with no shattering letdown in performance or in motor safety.

Wadhams 370 —the Year-Round Gasoline

With 370, the thermometer's rise is thriftily converted at the carburetor into still greater mileage.

Warm-up is instantaneous. First-touch starting ease.

And above all — the outstanding economy of full motor protection under every condition!

Stay in the charted channel of safety.

SCHOOL NURSES FIND MANY STUDENTS NEED MEDICAL ATTENTION

Of 2,700 Weighed and Measured in March, 315 Were Underweight

More than 2,700 Appleton school children were weighed and measured in March, according to the monthly report of the two school nurses, Mary Orison and Jane Barclay. Most of the children were of normal weight, 315 being 10 percent underweight, and 66 were 20 percent overweight.

The nurses visited 14 schools for a total of 187 visits, gave partial inspection to 36 children, had conferences with 48, had physicians examine 376, dentists 19, excluded 6 children, sent notices to 410 parents, gave 50 class room talks, gave 56 children first aid, and took 22 temperatures.

Defective teeth were found in 102 children and in 15 cases they were corrected. There were 74 tonsillar cases and 3 were corrected. Other defects among children were as follows: Skin troubles 22, pediculosis 4, nasal breathing 17, discharging ears, 2, hearing 2, eyes 2, vision 1, speech 3, thyroid gland 15 and 1 corrected, cervical gland 20, posture 19, heart 3, lungs 2, malnutrition 23.

There were seven office interviews given and 388 phone calls answered, 2 items for newspapers and 2 letters and pamphlets sent out. Two special interviews were held and 8 school clinics. One nurses meeting was attended and 4 classes in nutrition taught.

Home nursing instruction was given for the correction of defects in 7 children up to 6 years of age and 10 from 6 to 16 years; mumps, 2 up to 6 years and 5 from 6 to 16; chicken pox, 9 up to 6 years and 2 from 6 to 16; pneumonia, 1 child, 6 to 18 years; influenza, 2 up to 6 years, 8 from 6 to 16 years; colds, 2 from 6 to 16 years given home nursing and instruction and 31 up to 6 years instruction only, and 54 from 6 to 16 years.

Other troubles numbered 10 among children under 6 years and 28 to 16 years; in 3 cases of trouble in children under 6 the ailment was undiagnosed, in 11 over 6 years and in 2 over 16 years; three children under 6 were not ill and 4 under 16; surgical care was given 1 child under 6 years, 12 under 16 and 1 over 16. Social service was given in 2 cases and 10 children were accompanied by the nurses to doctors, dentists, clinics or hospitals.

MAYOR INVITES LIONS TO CONVENTION HERE

Wisconsin and Northern Michigan Lions are being invited to attend the Lions club convention here June 4 and 5, in a letter being sent out by Mayor A. C. Kule. The letter extends the city's invitation to visit here and prospective guests are assured that all city officials and citizens will do everything to make their stay pleasant and enjoyable.

The mayor's letter is the first of a series of four which are being sent out by local groups, one each week for the next four weeks. The chamber of commerce, the Lion's club and the district Lion officers are sending the other letters.

FALLING ROOF LEADS AS HAZARD IN MINES

Explosions Not Responsible for as Many Deaths as Falling Structures

Washington—(P)—It is not the sudden, terrifying, spectacular explosion which kills most of the miners who lose their lives in accidents, but the more prosaic falling of parts of the roof of the underground passages in which they work.

The latest complete compilation of mine fatalities in the United States discloses that out of 2,895 deaths in 1925, more than 1,200 were caused by roof falls. With this situation clearly pointing to the mine roof as the greatest single safety problem in the industry, the bureau of mines is conducting a special investigation under a specific appropriation from congress in an attempt to reduce the hazard.

The investigation includes a study of methods of mining as they affect roof action, methods of roof support, methods of testing the soundness of the roof, and state laws and local regulations as they affect the exercise of precautions.

The work was begun in the coal mines of West Virginia, with the operation of the state department of mines. After one year of this cooperative effort, it was found that the number of fatalities from roof falls had been largely reduced in comparison with previous years while the production of coal had been materially increased.

STAGE And SCREEN

ARTHUR LAKE, ALICE WHITE AND GRET CAST SCORE IN "HAROLD TEEN"

Perhaps the main attraction of "Harold Teen," at the Elite Theatre today, Saturday and Sunday is its freshness and youthfulness. Harold, the irresistible country boy who takes the city high school by storm, fills us with all ongoing once more to play "one old cat" and joining the "gang" in some sort of mischievous prank. There are few who do not wish they could live their youth over again and "Harold Teen" comes nearer to that than anything yet devised.

The picture is based on Carl Ed's newspaper comic strip of the same name and contains all of the characters made famous by that noted cartoonist. Tom Geraghty, who is given credit for the screen story, has elaborated on many of Ed's most laughable situations to an extent that rocks the house with mirth.

The title role is played by Arthur Lake, who gives the outstanding performance of his career and one that should go far toward making him one of the screen's most popular comedians. The leading feminine role—that of Lillums—is played by Mary Brian; while Alice White in the part of Giggles, the school vamp, is great. Others in the superb cast include Lucien Littlefield, Jack Duffy, Hedda Hopper, Ed Brady, Jack Egan, Frances Hamilton and Fred Kelsey.

"Harold Teen" was directed by Mervyn LeRoy and produced by First National Pictures by Robert Kane.

LAST TIME TODAY AT FISCHER'S APPLETON THEATRE

KANSAS CITY BUILDER IMPORTS OUTDOOR ART

Kansas City—(P)—J. C. Nichols is going to Spain for ornaments with which to adorn a shopping center in Kansas City. For an adjoining road dance area he already has brought outdoor objects from Italy. A sea horse fountain from Venice and a dove vase from Florence are among more than 500 figures in little pools and fountains between streets lined with houses in Italian style.

When Nichols first imported European art, the aristocratic Bradlechs rapidly consented to the marriage, as do the Lovines.

This is the story of "We Americans," now a successful photoplay coming to Fischer's Appleton Theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday in connection with Harry Shannon's Recording Orchestra.

NEARBY
TOWNSPARENT-TEACHERS
ELECT MRS. NELSON
AS NEW PRESIDENTMrs. Otto Aufreiter Gives Report of State Convention of Association

Kaukauna—Mrs. L. F. Nelson was elected president of the Parent-Teacher's association at the last spring meeting of the organization on Thursday evening in the high school auditorium. Mrs. J. J. Haass was elected vice president and Mrs. Otto Aufreiter was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

A report on the state convention of Parent-Teacher's associations was presented at the meeting by Mrs. Reeve, president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, spoke of the advances made by the organization in the past year. Mr. Aufreiter said. She reported that an international parent-teacher association was formed at a meeting in Canada with representatives from fourteen foreign countries. Mrs. Zachow, the Wisconsin president, told the delegates that the ideal of the association is to have a parent-teacher group in every school with every parent a member.

Mrs. Aufreiter said the seven cardinal objectives of education were sound health, worthy home membership, mastery of tools and technique of learning, useful citizenship, vocational effectiveness and wise use of leisure and ethical character.

The Rev. T. Parker Hilborne of Brook Memorial Methodist church expressed the spirit of appreciation that the parents had for the teachers who must work with their children. A fine spirit of cooperation was urged.

A vote of thanks was extended to H. C. Ransley, scoutmaster of Kaukauna troop No. 20, by the local association. It was hoped that he would be able to remain with the scouts for many years.

The following program was presented: Song, "America," audience; song, "Ben Hur Chariot Race," boys of St. Mary School of Music; vocal duet, "Sunbonnet Sally and Overall Jim," Dolores Landreman and Jackie Burns; instrumental duet, Mary and John McMahon; song, "My Music Lesson," Florence Schmidt; musical and vocal selections, Robert Mayer and Fahl and Kappell brothers.

A proposal that the little red schoolhouse close shop during the winter and remain open all summer was made by S. M. Thomas of the state department of public instruction in a round table conference on rural schools. Mrs. Aufreiter said. Thousands of dollars would be saved to the state if children in the elementary grades in rural districts had their vacation in the winter and went to school through the summer, Mr. Thomas asserted.

George S. Dick of the state department of public instruction, denounced the present condition in the school system that forces children in rural communities, where the eight month school term prevails, to crowd in a nine months' curriculum.

WILD DUCKS MAKE HOME WITH DOMESTIC BIRDS

Guelph, Ont.—(AP)—Disregarding tradition and precedent, a number of wild ducks decided not to travel south last fall and took up residence in a barn here.

The birds chose quarters in the barn of Andrew Aitchison at Puslinch Lake where they are fraternizing with the domestic fowl.

The wild ducks are being fed in the same way as the hens and appear to be perfectly contented.

The Appleton Post-Crescent Offers a Pictorial
Booklet "Ships of the Navy."

This handsome new compilation of pictures and facts about the United States Navy shows the evolution of the fleet from the early frigates like Old Ironsides to the modern superdreadnaughts.

There are photo graphs of all the latest types of fighting craft, floating, under-sea, and flying. America since the War has been finding her place on the seven seas as a world power. This booklet will give every American a true picture of his Navy and of world naval strength. It shows why world conferences and congressional debates today center around the Navy. EUROPEAN RAILROAD HAS
DEVICE TO STOP TRAINS

Berlin—(AP)—A new device for stopping trains automatically is about to be installed on the Berlin-Dresden line.

The new device is worked by an electric-magnetic system, one magnet being attached to the rails between the first semaphore or warning signal, and the principal semaphore, while the other is affixed to the locomotive. On observing the warning signal, the engineer can disconnect the locomotive's magnet by means of a simple lever, failing to do so however, the brakes are automatically applied about a quarter of a mile before the principal semaphore, when the locomotive can not be started, again until the engineer gets off and operates a releasing device attached to the semaphore. # LAWRENCE TRACK SQUAD OPENS SEASON WITH OSHKOSH

Viking Athletes Face 1927 Wisconsin Normal Champs In Dual Events

Hold Annual College Outdoor Sorority Meet in Conjunction at Whiting Field

The first real competitive test of the 1928 season for Coach A. C. Denney's Lawrence college track and field squad, said to be strong in the track events but weak in the field events, will be held here Saturday afternoon, with an ancient rival, Oshkosh Teachers' college, the foe. The team with Oshkosh, 1927 Wisconsin state normal school champion, will start at 2 o'clock at Whiting field.

In addition to the dual competition, the Viking athletes also will take part in their annual outdoor sorority meet, with the squad divided into four teams. A few weeks ago the indoor sorority contest was held and was won by the Phi Mu group, the four oldest groups in the campus being represented. Saturday the other four sororities of the college will be represented. Points made by the individual athletes against Oshkosh will also be credited to the sorority each represents and the team having the most points will win a banner for its sorority. The contest is to arouse greater interest in track among the girls who will be taking part in their representatives and to arouse greater effort among the squad members by creating a new interest within the squad.

SOPHOMORE STAR

One of the newest sensations to breeze across the track horizon is Lawrence's sophomore, who recently established a new Big Ten indoor record for the half-mile with the time of 1 minute and 54 seconds. Martin looms as one of the best middle distance runners in this country if he can continue his early showings. He also finished third to Herman Phillips, Illinois A. C. star, and Ray Conger, of Iowa, in a special 880-yard race at the recent Ohio Relays.

THE BLUE TEAM

Lawrence will be represented in the 100 and 200-yard dashes by Don and Doug Hyde, the co-captains; Howard Pope and Ray Brunsatt. In the 440 Don Hyde and Robert Rasmussen will run with the possibility that Art Humphrey also will be in. Humphrey is a good quarter-mile but he has been on the sick list for the week. The half-mile will be taken care of by three veterans, Ray Menmore, Al Fischel and Art Mueller, the latter a two miller trying the shorter distance.

Mueller also will get a chance in the high hurdles with Frank Schneller and in the lows the Hyde captains again will perform. Four millers are Menning, Charles Wolfe, Ewald Scheurman and Frank Jesse and in the two-mile Wolfe also will try his hand with Jesse and Scheurman, and possibly Menning. If the latter can stand the strain after his half-mile.

The pole vault, a week event, will be cared for by Ross Cannon, Charles Scott and Paul Ward. In the high jump, Doug Hyde again will do his stuff aided by Degoy Ellis and Scheurman. Four football men, Alvin Krohn, Elmer Ott, Olin Jessup and Henry Weigand, Jessup being the only man to try the event before this year, will be in the shotput. Ellis and Pope are the broad jumpers and Jessup, alone will try the discus against the Oshkosh rivals. In the javelin are Bruce McInnis, Krohn, Gilbert St. Mitchell, Humphrey, Rasmussen, Allan Hoffman and Ralph Bartell, the largest group entered in any one event. The relay team is composed of the Hyde twins, Brunsatt, Rasmussen, St. Mitchell, Scott.

Kappa Delta-Menning, captain; Pope, Scheurman, Weigand, Ott and Scott.

Zeta Tau Alpha-Don Hyde, captain; Wolfe, Jessup, Krohn, Bartell, Ward, Beta Phi Alpha-Mueller, captain; Brunsatt, Ellis, Humphrey, McInnis, Hoffman.

Europe Entertained By U. S. Girls "Who Can Hit"

New York—(AP)—Europe seems about to be entertained for a while by American girls who can hit.

It is said of Glenna Collett, now on a golfing tour to England, that she hits the ball like a man. If anyone doubts the masculine severity of Helen Wills' tennis strokes, such doubts may be removed by brief discussion with several of America's "first ten" ranking list who have exchanged drives with the Californian.

This is Miss Wills' fourth trip to Europe. It cannot be called an invasion because she is just as much queen of the courts in Europe as she is at home. The throne is all ready for her occupancy and it will be quite a big shock to those abroad as it will be here if "our Helen" does not engage in another conquering march, through Germany, Holland and France, as well as Britain.

"I look forward keenly to renewing acquaintances abroad," she said before departing recently with Miss Penelope Anderson of Richmond as a partner. "I was very proud to win the Wimbledon championship last year and I hope to have some good play again."

No confident prediction here from the girl who didn't lose a match at home or abroad last year, who possesses stroking power never before exhibited by a feminine player and whose successes have gained for her undisputed ascendancy in the tennis tour occupied for so long by Suzanne Lenglen.

Miss Wills doesn't talk much about herself and her game. It has taken

OLD TIMERS LEAD MACK DIAMOND MEN TO EASY VICTORY

Jack Quinn, Cobb, Speaker Place Athletics in Third Place in American Race

Thanks to the resourcefulness of three of the game's most ancient warriors, Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics hold undisputed possession of third place in the American League standing.

The tribe of McGillicuddy ran roughshod over Washington Thursday evening, but a 4-0 decision to place right behind the New York Yankees and Cleveland Indians.

Credit for that victory must go to a trio, aged 123 years in the aggregate and with 62 major league campaigns to divide among its component parts. John Quinn, 42 years old and a veteran of 16 big league seasons, held the Senators to seven scattered hits out of which they could fashion not a semblance of a run.

Eight of the Athletics' ten tallies were accounted for by Ty Cobb, who at 40 years is the 24th American League pennant chaser, and 40-year-old Tris Speaker, who started two years after the "Georgia Peach."

Ty and Tris divided batting honors on a share and share basis. Each went to the plate four times smashed out a triple, drove in three runs and scored once. Just to make the score more or less of a monopoly quinn drove in one with a sacrifice fly and scored once himself.

YANKS, INDIANS WIN

A six-run rally in the eighth enabled the Yankees to whip the Boston Red Sox at New York, 9 to 1, and retain their grip on first place. The Yankee assault drove Dan Macfadyen out of the box and badly goaled his successor, "Slim" Harriss.

The Indians kept pace by beating the Detroit Tigers at Cleveland, 6 to 1. Although wild, George Grant and the Tigers to seven hits and scores, until the ninth.

Home runs by Blue and Schulte each with a man on base, aided the Browns to register a 6 to 5 triumph over the Chicago White Sox at St. Louis. The Sox tied the score in the eighth but three successive singles off Ted Lyons in the ninth gave the Browns the decision.

Idle for days because of inclement weather, the New York Giants leading the National League parade, opened a series with Philadelphia by dropping a 5 to 1 verdict to the Quakers. Augie Walsh, recruit hurler, held the Giants to five hits, two of which were earned drives by Lindstrom and Ott. Pounded for 11 hits, Larry Benton, ace of the Giant staff, dropped his first game of the season.

Ed Brandt, Seattle rookie, pitched the weakened Boston Braves 4 to 0 victory over Dazzy Vance and the Brooklyn Dodgers. Brandt allowed but two hits, both singles.

HILL BEATS REDS

Carmen Hill won his first victory of the year when the Pittsburg Pirates beat Cincinnati at Forbes field, 7 to 2. The league champions hit Edwards and Jablonowski hard in the early innings, but Carl Mays was a tartar for them after he entered the game in the third inning.

Cold weather forced postponement of an encounter at Chicago between the Cubs and the St. Louis Cardinals.

ROOKS HIT HARD

PAUL EASTERLING (ABOVE) FRANK O'DOUL

Hitting big league pitching has proved easy so far for these former high league sluggers—Paul Easterling of the Detroit Tigers and Frank O'Doul of the New York Yankees. Before the season was two weeks old they had made three home runs apiece and Easterling was leading his league in batting.

Easterling went up to the Tigers this year from Bloomington of the Three I League, where he batted .312 and made 14 homers last season. O'Doul in 1927 made 33 homers and hit .378 for the San Francisco Seals, from whom he was drafted by the Giants. Both are outfielders. Easterling signaled his big league arrival by making three home runs in three successive games, while O'Doul made two of his in one game.

CUBS OWNER SAYS CUYLER EASY TO GET ALONG WITH

Wrigley Has High Praise for His New Slugging Outfielder

Chicago—(AP)—Hazen ("Kiki") Cuyler, bench warmer and bad boy of the Pirates, is going great guns with the Chicago Cubs.

Owner William Wrigley and Manager Joe McCarthy look to this sleek, fleet-footed brunet of 29 for the punch to put them across ahead of the field in the National League pennant chase.

"That Kiki Cuyler is some boy," said Wrigley. "He is a bet he can lead the team. I never saw more in the player. He is fighting for the Cubs all the time. He is helping the rookies and he is going to give us the pennant this year, or I must guess by a mile."

Kiki is been in professional baseball only eight years, but in that time he has experienced the sorrows and joys that many of the game's old veterans never realize. He has been sent back to the "Farm" three times after a major league start. He has his way to find among the small circle of the "muds" in Chicago, who has been benched for insubordination and he had been in the city.

Last season Cuyler was benched by the Pirates when he had a fuss with Donnie Bush and Barney Drexler.

While many critics, including John McGraw of the Giants, believed Kiki was through, that his batting weakness had been discovered and that being hit by a pitched ball had made him bat shy, he has made good with his surprising fashion. For 21 spring exhibition games this year and four National League contests he has safely at least once in every game and seemingly rejuvenated the club.

14 CARD ATHLETES IN DRAKE CONTEST

Three Relay Teams and Three Individual Performers Taken

Spent relay two mile relay, and one mile relay teams were taken and three individual performers were taken.

Smith, Ramsay, Larson and Benson composed the sprint relay outfit. Smith is recognized as one of the best dash men in the conference and his team mates, while all sophs, are good performers. Benson and Larson won their preliminary heats at the indoor conference meet and all of them have negotiated the hundred in the second flat. Given favorable conditions at Des Moines they are expected to show up well for the Drake school.

Bullmore and Pety, cross country stars with the sophomore relays at Madison, competing with the best high school athletes in the west and perhaps nation and though not exceedingly hopeful of taking any first places they expect to make a good showing and place in several events.

It will be the best sort of practice for one of the hardest schedules the local school as ever faced including defense of its 1927 Fox River Valley conference title. It is the first time an Orange team entered any meet outside the conference, even the state meet, in any of the big events.

Other teams include another Interstate Interscholastic at Appleton on May 19 when schools of four states compete in the Lawrence contest and the Valley conference relay carnival here a week from Saturday May 5. The Madison team left Friday is composed of Captain Swede Johnson, broad jump, shot put and 100-yard dash, George Popp, javelin, and Larry Kruse, discus. Bob Roemer, Bob Kuntz and Volfram (200) Roemer (400) and Nohr (half-mile, medley relay team.

ORANGE ATHLETES LEAVE FOR MADISON

Eight Appleton High Trackmen Entered in Midwest Relays

While Appleton sport fans are being entertained at Whiting field Saturday afternoon by the first home track and field meet of the season, a dual contest between Lawrence college and the Oshkosh Teachers' college, the Appleton state teacher champions eighth members of the Appleton high school team will be taking part in the first big meet for an Orange team in many years.

The Shields hopes will attend the Madison meet with the sophomore relays at Madison, competing with the best high school athletes in the west and perhaps nation and though not exceedingly hopeful of taking any first places they expect to make a good showing and place in several events.

Book Of Knowledge

Robins and Thrushes

Many birds are equally at home in Europe and America. The Robin Redbreast is one of these. Legend and fancy cluster thick about the beloved Robin but all arise from the fact that his breast is a rich crimson. The Robin is the friendliest little creature of all the wilds. He will hop about a gardener's feet. His coming is one of Spring's sure harbingers.

By NEA. Through Special Permission of the Publishers of The Book of Knowledge. Copyright, 1923-26.

It is believed the Robin began its association with man back in the cave days when the bird could fly in at the open door and share man's rough fare.

The sweet song of the Warbler is familiar in many states. The artist has sketched a Marsh Warbler.

The Thrush family includes many species. The American Robin is of this family, and so is the joyous Bluebird, which used to be so common before the English Sparrow drove him away. The Wheatear, sometimes called the Stonechat, breeds freely in Labrador and sometimes straggles southward into the United States. Here is pictured a little family of Thrushes.

INDIANA'S GREATEST MURDER MYSTERY IS NO NEARER SOLUTION

April 28 Is Anniversary of Date on Which Discovery of 9 Murders Was Made LaPorte, Ind. — Does Mrs. Belle Guinness, Indiana's "woman Bluebeard," still live?

The twentieth anniversary of the state's greatest murder mystery, which was disclosed here on April 28, 1908, finds this question still unanswered and LaPorte talking about the crime as it occurred only yesterday.

Attorney H. W. Worden and half of the population of this little town says Mrs. Guinness escaped from her burning home and probably is still alive—an old woman now, nursing her terrible secret.

The other 8000 inhabitants join with Attorney R. N. Smith in crying no.

And while the question is argued, the site of Indiana's famous "murder farm" stands desolate, deserted, untouched for 20 years. People passing that way in the night shudder as the wind moans through the drooping pine trees.

INTERNATIONAL MYSTERY

The Guinness crime was an international mystery and probably one of the greatest crimes in the history of the United States. Luring men here by promise of marriage, this female Bluebeard (who was by no means good looking) murdered them for their money. Accepting money for rearing illegitimate children, she put them to death.

In the dark hours of the night she buried the bodies behind her house. There the decayed forms of nine of her victims were found. Others undiscovered may be sleeping yet under the green-carpeted barn yard.

Her two husbands she murdered for their insurance. The first she poisoned to collect $5000. The second died from a blow on the head. A sausage grinder fell off the shelf and struck him, she said, and the authorities believed her. His death was worth $4000.

HOME IS BURNED

Then came insistent inquiries from Asle Helgelein of Mansfield, S. D., about his brother, Andrew, who had come to LaPorte to wed the widow. Her replies did not satisfy this Norwegian and he wrote her was coming to LaPorte to search for Andrew.

Andrew, who had been nearly $3000 out of the bank at Mrs. Guinness' request, was then among the victims in her private burial grounds.

The day before the fire, Mrs. Guinness came to LaPorte. She made her will, telling her attorney she was afraid Ray Lamphere, a carpenter who had worked for her, would set fire to her home.

She deposited $750 in the bank, bought a can of kerosene and returned to her farm.

That night the house burned to the ground. The bodies of three children who lived with Mrs. Guinness and the body of a woman were found in the cellar.

HEAD NEVER FOUND

But the head of the adult's body was never found. On one finger of this corpse was found three rings, identified as those of Mrs. Guinness. A search in the ashes disclosed a set of false teeth. They were identified by a LaPorte dentist as one he had made for Mrs. Guinness.

A week after the fire, Asle Helgelein arrived to search for his missing brother. Police laughed at him, but he was suspicious.

Digging in the yard, he found a coffee sack containing the body of a man. The search for his absent brother was ended.

Bodies of men, women and children were taken from other holes. In one grave was the body of Jennie Oleo Guinness, 17-year-old adopted daughter who was poisoned because she knew too much, it is supposed. Most of the bodies were headless, with legs and arms sawed off as though by a skilled surgeon.

Lamphere was arrested on the strength of trouble he had with the widow and the statements she made to the lawyer. He was indicted for murder, eventually convicted of arson and sent to prison for life.

Mrs. Guinness isn't dead and before I die I'm going to tell all I know," Lamphere told Worden, his attorney.

WIDOW'S CONFESSION MADE

Six months later, while driving, Lamphere told his secret to Harry Myers, his nurse. Lamphere said Mrs. Guinness poisoned a woman who was staying with her, cut off her head and gave it to him to bury. He said he buried the head in a box in the orchard.

Myers was paroled in due time and he and Attorney Worden went to the orchard one night and dug in hopes of finding the woman's head. They failed, Myers saying he was unable to remember the exact location.

Speaking of the mystery today, Worden declared his conviction that Mrs. Guinness killed the woman and the children, placed the bodies in the cellar and fled after arranging with Lamphere to start the fire. He cited these facts as proof:

1. Mrs. Guinness weighed more than 200 pounds. The adult body was of a woman weighing less than 100.

2. The head of the woman would not have been burned away and the children's heads, which were little charred, not have been consumed, too.

3. Neighbors who peered into the windows of Mrs. Guinness' room while the fire raged said the beds were empty.

4. Doctors found poison in the stomachs of all four victims.

5. The teeth said to have been found in the ruins never passed through the fire, gold edges being sharp and the teeth not brittle.

SAYS SHE DIED IN FIRE

Just as strongly, Attorney Smith contends that Mrs. Guinness died in the fire and cites these points as proof:

1. The teeth and the rings identified her body.

2. Lamphere sought revenge, poisoned her and the children and set fire to the house.

3. She was not shrewd enough to execute the crime and escape.

4. If alive, she would have been found in the nation-wide search.

And thus LaPorte still debates the case, with the solution of the mystery no nearer than it was 20 years ago.

The normal heart beat of man is 72 per minute.

Monarchs Of Air Show No Fear And Attack Planes

Croydon, England—(AP)—Eagles, startled by invasion of their aerial precincts, have become a menace to flyers in Europe.

Bird societies of the British Isles and associations of airmen alike have set out to collect information which it is hoped will help aviators to protect themselves from danger of attack by the birds.

Some of the adventures of aviators with eagles have been harrowing in the extreme, even to the point of fatality. The eagle seems to have no fear of an airplane much bigger than itself.

A British aviator was flying high over a chain of hills in misty weather when he saw a great bird dashing straight at his plane. Without slackening speed the eagle dove for the plane and collided with the propeller, breaking it to pieces. The eagle was killed, but the airman was in great difficulties in having to make a forced landing in awkward country.

Another British pilot encountered a huge eagle over a mountain range. The eagle flew around the plane in circles, growing ever less in diameter, evidently trying to pick out the most vulnerable part of the plane for an attack. The pilot moved his head, and this caught the eye of the eagle, who prepared for the swoop. The pilot remembered a pistol in the locker near his seat. He drew it and fired. He did not hit the eagle, but he frightened it, and the big bird flew away.

The mountains behind Athens contain eagles of particularly pugnacious character. An airplane was flying over the mountains recently when several eagles swooped down and attacked it simultaneously. Their dashes at the machine so crippled it that the pilot was forced to descend quickly, and landed so badly that he and a passenger were injured.

A pilot flying from Paris to Madrid met an eagle which apparently challenged him to a high flying contest. The bird soared, and so did the plane. Higher and higher they went, until the eagle's wings began to flag and its strength failed. The eagle suddenly stretched out its wings and sailed away to earth, leaving the plane master.

Even smaller birds, such as swifts, evince fear of a plane, according to other British pilots.

DEPORTED FOREIGNERS ARE USUALLY RETURNED

Paris—(AP)—The French have the same difficulty getting rid of undesirable foreigners that some people have with cats. They come back. Some of them, when they are expelled, don't even leave the country. Without escort, they are put aboard trains bound for foreign lands, but before reaching the frontiers, they get off and take the next train back to Paris.

Not having enough money or men to see that every expelled foreigner is escorted to the frontier, the Paris police are wondering what to do about the situation. The new police regime has been conducting clean-up raids in various parts of Paris almost nightly, and all foreigners who seem to have nothing to do, and lack their identity cards, are asked or ordered to leave.

All of those expelled for serious offenses are escorted to the boundary. It is likely the others will be detained and deported in batches.

PENNSYLVANIA REARS MEMORIAL IN FRANCE

Tributes to Men Who Gave Their Lives in World War Being Erected

Philadelphia—(AP)—Three memorials to Pennsylvania troops in the world war will be dedicated May 29 and 30 in France at points where sons of the state most distinguished themselves in encounters of the American and allied offensives.

The monuments of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania—a drinking fountain, a large colonnade and a bridge—are to be paid for out of a $300,000 appropriation by the legislature. They are in the course of completion on sites chosen by the Pennsylvania state battle monuments commission, which approved the designs and is supervising the erection.

One memorial, a beautiful colonnade costing $175,000, has been built at Varennes, on a hilltop which was hotly contested by the Pennsylvania forces of the American expeditionary forces and the enemy in the Meuse-Argonne drive of late September, 1918. It stands as a tribute to all Pennsylvania soldiers who participated in the war.

In the memorial to the Twenty-eighth Division, "Pennsylvania's Own" the commission has given France a structure as useful as it is ornamental—a bridge connecting Flines and Vismette across the Vesle River. It replaces a span destroyed in the fighting.

The third monument, a drinking fountain, has been erected at Nanttilles in memory of the Eightieth Division, comprised in part of Pennsylvanians.

Two other memorials, one to the Seventy-ninth Division at Montfaucon and another to the Fifty-third field artillery brigade, at Audenard, Belgium, have been held up by the national battle monuments commission, which selected the sites for national memorials. They are to be erected later elsewhere.

Plans for the dedication of the three monuments call for a pilgrimage of Keystone State veterans, headed by Maj. Gen. William G. Price, to the scenes of the fighting. If a large enough number of a statewide will be chartered to leave New York May 19.

Does Your Breath Offend Others?

See if your mouth changes this Pink solution to White when you rinse and gargle it

Semafor not only cleanses — but makes mouth condition actually visible in 20 seconds

Have you heard of this discovery—an antiseptic mouth wash that visibly reveals mouth condition by scientific color changes of the solution in the mouth itself?

Dr. Alfred H. Kropff, B.S., M.A., Ph.D.—an authority on purifiers—developed this scientific method of visible mouth hygiene, and made it available for the home.

In 20 seconds by the visible color changes of Semafor, you actually see mouth condition. (See Signal Chart above.)

Use the coupon for the Test-Bottle FREE. Make the two Tests in our booklet "Visible Mouth Hygiene." This comes free with the Test-Bottle.

First—the Color Change Test for Acid Mouth and Fermentation. These not only cause unpleasant breath, such as halitosis, but are the breeding media of germs of decay.

Second—see Film Removed from Teeth. Ascertain if your present cleansing methods really do the work. Let science test them by the Semafor color changes.

Leading dentists have asked us to tell you this: "Brushing the teeth does not thoroughly cleanse the mouth. Neither does ordinary rinsing with mouth wash. 80% are mistaken who believe their mouths are clean."

For correct hygiene use generous mouthfuls of Semafor. Flush thoroughly for 20 or 30 seconds. Expectorate the waste. Repeat operation 3 to 5 times. Then your mouth should be cleansed. But if Semafor still changes from pink to white, consult your dentist.

Semafor, of course, tells your condition—clean or unclean—acid or normal—by its color changes. No other mouth wash does this. And Semafor makes nine times its volume of mouth wash—so you can use plenty with less expense.

Leading Dentists are not only prescribing Semafor, but using it in their practice in place of ordinary washes. So don't buy any mouth wash until you have tried this. You'll see results you never conceived of. Any druggist can supply you.

For Test-Bottle Free write Indicator Laboratories, Inc., Dept. A-12, 154 E. Erie St., Chicago, Ill.

Glistening Teeth make a Winning Smile FREE 35c Coupon in next Thursday's paper

Prettier than pearls are teeth that glisten. Hidden pearls are teeth discolored or covered with film.

Semafor not only takes film off, but you can see it in the solution. Try test shown in our new booklet that comes with Free Test-Bottle of Semafor. If teeth are badly discolored your dentist can gently burnish them until they gleam. Then correct brushing and regular use of Semafor—beauty's first assistant—will keep them prettier than pearls.

DOUBLE MALTED

"Elmer always had been a big, healthy child, constantly bickering, but since he started drinking Thompson's Malted Milk, he has regularly increased in weight, his health has improved and he is now a happy, contented child."

Mrs. SCOTT,
725 7th St.,
Milwaukee, Wis.

STRENGTH FOR Little Bodies
SLEEP FOR Little Eyes

MALTED milk has been improved in a way that means a great deal to the health and sleep of little ones and ... grown-ups. The first taste tells you it isn't ordinary malted milk. It is so rich and creamy and malty. And then it mixes so quickly in hot or cold milk. It is actually "Double Malted."

Twice as Easy to Digest as Plain Milk
This is the secret of Thompson's. In itself, it has the food value of an ordinary light meal. And yet it is digested almost instantly. Not only that, when mixed with milk it more than doubles the nourishment of the milk; makes the milk twice as easy to digest and counteracts the binding tendency of raw milk.

Healthful Sleep
Sleeplessness and restlessness is caused by nervous tension. Thompson's, taken at bedtime, withdraws the blood naturally from the higher nerve centers. It nourishes tired nerves and body. The result is quiet, restful sleep.

Normal Weight
In a test conducted by Milwaukee school children, a gain was made of 2½ to 3 pounds per month per child by merely adding three glasses a day of Thompson's to their regular food. Children love Thompson's as much as a soda fountain drink, and it helps them take their three glasses of milk a day. Don't be afraid to serve Thompson's between meals. It can be taken any time when need of food urges.

Invalids, Convalescents, Nursing Mothers
Thousands of physicians and hospitals are serving Thompson's as a building diet. It is concentrated food in a delicious form ... and yet not a tax even on weak stomachs. It helps restore normal weight and energy quickly.

30 Servings in Every Pound
You can buy Thompson's at any grocery or drug store. It is one of the most inexpensive quality foods you can buy.

Buy Thompson's today at your nearest druggist or grocer.

NEED WARM WEATHER TO PUT GOLF COURSE IN SHAPE FOR PLAY

All Has Been Done That Is Possible Until Ground Dries Out

Appleton golfers who contemplate using the municipal course this summer had better get next to the weather man and see that he orders a little farm weather if they expect to start chasing the "elusive pill" across the green grass and among the trees in South Park.

Workmen have been cleaning out the shrubbery remaining from last fall and have finished laying water pipes on the grounds. They also have completed whatever other work has been feasible at this time of the year but until the sun dries the ground so that a tractor can be placed on it, discing and raking of the new fairways is impossible. The city also will have to lay water mains on E. Fremont-st. before the pipe lines on the golf course can be connected.

The fairways on the course will be seeded blue with 80 per cent germinating blue grass and the greens with German creeping bent. Both these grasses grow fast and are easily taken care of. The German creeping bent also makes an ideal putting tooth because of its smoothness and the fact that it forces out all foreign grasses and weeds.

Persons promoting the new course hope to have it in playing condition by July 1.

GOVERNOR BALKS AT FIELD HOUSE FUNDS

Sees, in Plan, Method of Evading Provision on State Borrowing Money

Madison—(AP)—The proposed test in state supreme court of the constitutionality of the statute under which the University of Wisconsin plans to finance a new field house involves more than determination of the legality or illegality of that statute, Governor Fred R. Zimmerman believes.

In it is involved, he thinks, the question of whether the plan does not provide a method by which the constitutional provision prohibiting the state from borrowing money is evaded.

The state empowers the Wisconsin Building Corporation to borrow funds, lease from the regents of the University a site, erect a building on the site, and lease the land and building back to the regents. From annual rentals paid by the regents to the building corporation, title to the land and building is to pass from the corporation to the University.

The state is forbidden in the constitution to borrow money. Gov. Zimmerman believes that the plan provides a way by which a state institution evades the constitutional prohibition.

In borrowing money from the teacher's retirement fund for erection of a field house or memorial building, the constitution is not only evaded, the governor points out, but the state is actually borrowing money from itself.

William J. Hannan, Milwaukee attorney, is preparing to start friendly suit before the supreme court to test the constitutionality of the statute which enables the Wisconsin Building Corporation to borrow funds, and construct buildings with their view to becoming property of the state.

The Building Corporation seeks to borrow $326,000 at 4½ percent interest with which to erect a field house. It already has borrowed several thousand dollars from the retirement funds which it invested in the erection of the University Memorial Building.

ATHLETES OF COUNTY SEEK HONORS HERE

Field Day Will Be Held at Wilson High School Field May 5

Athletes from rural, parochial and public schools of the county will take part in the county field day to be held at Wilson junior high school athletic field here May 5.

The regular rural school athletic contest is to be held in conjunction with a county contest to pick winners to send to the state Olympic games to be held in Milwaukee later under the direction of a Milwaukee newspaper.

However, A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools explained, entrants from public or parochial schools in the cities of the county must take part in town elimination contests, being held this week, in order to be eligible to take part in county contests.

Rural, parochial and public schools in each town are allowed to send contestants to the town contests, being held this week. Winners of first and second place in each event in the town contest, will be entered in the county field meet here on May 5.

The rural school boy and girl securing the highest number of points in the county meet here will be awarded a silver loving cup by the Post-Crescent.

SEA DISCIPLINE STERN

Stern discipline of the sea was meted to a bosun of the Commonwealth Line vessel Moreton Bay when it docked at the harbor at Sydney, Australia, recently. At a strike meeting of the Seamen's Union the man was charged with "carrying tales" to the mate with regard to certain happenings in the forecastle. The bosun offered an explanation, but the meeting found him guilty and ordered that he give 24 hours' notice of his intention to leave the vessel and further ordered him not to seek re-employment with the Commonwealth Line for 12 months.

COMPOSERS PROTEST OVER USE OF NAMES

Berlin—(AP)—Leading German composers and musical directors are excited over an announcement to the effect that they would serve on a committee of judges which is to select the best manuscript completing Schubert's "Unfinished Symphony."

"We protest against the misuse of our names," declare Professors Guido Adler, Max Friedlaender, Siegmund von Hausegger, Eusebius Mandyczewski, Hans Pfitzner, Franz Schalk, and Max Von Schillings.

"All we did was to agree to serve on an honorary committee for arranging an international Schubert centenary celebration. But we distinctly declined to lend our names to the contest for completing the symphony, as we regard such competition as inartistic."

The prizes for the best completion are offered by an American phonograph company. They aggregate $20,000.

Australia is the only continent that lies wholly within the southern hemisphere.

Girl's Poem Tells Boy How To Become Athletic

It's only a few years ago when little boys and little girls would start to quarrel that the little ladies would teasingly say "And what are little girls made of—Sugar and spice and everything that's nice! And if they cared to continue their teasing they might also add the few words about what little boys were made of and which was not very complimentary.

But times have changed now, and little girls don't all tease little boys but rather they tell them how to be big, strong athletes. Betty, a little lady attending the sixth grade in one of Appleton's grade schools is one of these new girls, and a few days ago when she was asked along with other students, to write a theme for language on health, she penned the following, which little boys would do well to follow closely:

"At recess Jack found Dick with such a dismal look on his face," Betty's theme begins, "that he laughed.

"It isn't a joke at all," sighed Dick. "Can you imagine me writing a composition on health" Jack, it's impossible!"

"I'll help you if you want me to," volunteered Jack.

"Say Jack, you're a real fellow. Thanks. Come over tonight after school and help me," said Dick in a relieved tone.

"As the boys were walking home that night after school Jack said, 'Dick, let's write a poem instead of a story. I've got an inspiration, let's hurry home before I forget it.'"

"When they arrived they sat down with a pencil and after an hour's labor they finished. Dick said, 'read it Jack, see how it sounds.' So Jack read:

"HOW A BOY BECOMES AN ATHLETE"
Here's to a boy who grew up strong
Many things he did that his life might be long.

Rosy cheeks and sparkling eyes
Are things a healthy boy should prize.
Had did he get them?
Ask him, he'll tell—
By learning his health
Rules and obeying them well.
Vegetables, fruit, milk, and meat.
These are the things he liked to eat.
Hours of sunshine, hours of rest,
Fill a boy with happiness and zest.
From all sick people he kept away.
Danger there was, so he did not stay.
With windows open he went to bed.
Fresh air he needed, so he said.
Daily six glasses of water he drank.
Twice a week he took swims in the tank.
In crossing the streets he used much care,
And never took a foolish dare.
With fire he would never play,
Because he knew it didn't pay
To take such risks that way.
He chose his clothing to suit the weather.
This is the way he showed he was clever.
He ate foods slowly and chewed them well.
This he did in health to excel.
Every morning he minded elimination.
In case of contagion, vaccination.
At mealtimes only did he eat

And in this way poor health he beat.
Such is the tale of this great athlete.
"That's pretty good if I do say so myself," said Dick, proudly. "It surely will be accepted."
"I should say! We worked hard enough," replied Jack. "I must go home to supper, goodbye."
"Goodbye," answered Dick, putting the papers away until the next day.
Betty's theme was only one of a good many written by Appleton grade children and she didn't mean that only boys could become strong by following the rules but that girls, too, could become healthy by following the same suggestions. Yes, times have changed!

DOGS ENJOY SUN BATHS
Canine pets of the rich in London are being given baths in artificial sunlight, and enjoy it as much as do the mongrels who sleep in the rays of the real Sol. The Royal Veterinary College is thus treating the pets for disease and for improvement of general health. The dogs are fitted with goggles to protect their eyes, and apparently enjoy the baths so thoroughly that they make no attempt to rub off the glasses.

A HOME COMPLETE As the Modern Bride Prefers It

HORNER DIAGNOSES CASES BY LOOKING AT HIS PATIENTS

Tells Jury He Doesn't Practice Medicine but He Manufactures It

"I can tell the disease afflicting people by looking at them and, what more I am the only man in the world who can do this," William Horner, 117 E. Harris-st., testifying in his own behalf, said in municipal court Friday morning. Horner is on trial charged with practicing medicine without a license.

Horner explained he was a manufacturer of medicines, his formulae are on file with the secretary of state and he has a permit from federal government to send out his wares.

Horner said that he was in partnership with Dr. C. E. Lahn, 4021 N. Oneida-st., and that they had their offices together at 117 E. Harris-st. Dr. Lahn, he said, was a licensed physician and had practiced in the state for many years.

DENY MOTION

The trial opened before County Judge Fred W. Heinemann Thursday morning. The state rested its case late Thursday afternoon and formal motions for a dismissal of the action by Attorney T. H. Ryan, Horner's counsel, were denied by Judge Heinemann.

Horner denounced the methods used by the district to secure evidence against Horner. He said the district attorney was making an attempt to have a man break the laws of the state and he also contended Horner could not have practiced medicine on the investigators sent by the district attorney because they were not sick, he expected a man had been sick before someone could treat him.

CALL FIVE WITNESSES

Five witnesses testified for the state Thursday afternoon. They were Frank Wagner, constable for the town of Center, who said Horner had treated him for a sore back by putting two plaster on it; Mrs. Vera Wischhoff, who testified Horner treated her for a female ailment and also treated her baby for a skin disease; Mrs. Meta Koepke, who testified Horner treated her baby for a fever; Dr. Robert Flynn, La Crosse, secretary of the Wisconsin Medical association, who testified that Horner was not a licensed physician and Richard Klumbers, who said Horner had treated him.

More than three hours were spent Friday morning in the examination and cross examination of Horner. The defendant explained how his medicines were prepared. He denied he practiced medicine.

"How do you know what diseases your patients have if you do not practice medicine," asked the district attorney.

"I can tell by looking at them," Horner replied. "And what's more, I'm the only man in the world who can do this. My medicines contain nothing harmful and I cured them."

Horner explained he used a stethoscope to determine whether patients had stomach ulcers or cancer. He said he could detect an ulcer by the beating of the blood through it. He also said he could cure ulcers but that if the case was cancer he could do nothing.

Dr. Lahn testified he was associated with Horner, who was a medicine manufacturer.

Horner's arrest followed visits to his office by special investigators authorized to make the visits by the district attorney. It was Horner's fourth arrest on similar charges. The first time the jury disagreed, the second time he pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $500 and costs and the third case was dismissed.

400 SEE DEMONSTRATION IN HIGH SCHOOL GYM

Approximately 400 people attended the exhibition of the Appleton high school gymnasium classes at high school Thursday evening.

The demonstration opened with an entrance act by all the boys and girls in the exhibition. Girls demonstrated work with physical culture apparatus, entertained with folk dancing, country dancing, tumbling and clown dances, worked with Indian clubs and demonstrated a setting up exercise. The boys' part of the entertainment consisted of work with wands, boxing, games, and work with gymnasium apparatus. Miss Virginia Hoesgood entertained with a "Kamarrink" dance.

Joseph Schiele, boys' physical director, and Miss Edith Smith, director of girls' physical activities, directed the demonstration.

MAYOR NAMES FIVE MEN TO BE JUDGES IN MARKER CONTEST

Mayor A. C. Rule, Friday appointed a committee of five local business and professional men to fly over the city for the purpose of selecting the largest and most artistic signs painted on roofs as guides to aviators.

Members of the committee are John Neller, chairman, Chris Muller, John H. Stanley, Stanley and Dr. W. J. Fraxley.

The committee was named as a part of the American Legion's campaign this week to have markers painted. The flight will not be made for several weeks in order to give the sign painters time to complete the contracts given to them.

Signs ordered so far vary in size from letters of 10 to 20 feet in length and arrows from 50 to 120 feet in length.

FLYERS PAY FINAL TRIBUTE TO BENNETT

Quebec, were given places immediately behind the casket for the long journey to the grave.

Three squads of bluejackets from the Maritime and navy and thousands of citizens extended to Bennett a hero's farewell on a day which had been reserved for triumphant war come to the men he had tried to rescue from isolation on lonely Greenly island.

Behind him he left a city in mourning. Flings that had flown in tribute to the Canadian crew of the trans-Atlantic plane Bremen stirred slowly in the slight breeze of early day.

Mrs. Cora Bennett, the widow, was escorted into the armory shortly before 9 o'clock. She went directly to the officers' quarters to rest. Meanwhile, at the rate of 75 a minute, men and women passed before the bier of the man who flew over the North pole.

At the head of the coffin stood a large cross of roses, the tribute of Mayor Walker. There was a wreath from Bennett's Brooklyn neighbors. From the Royal Canadian Air force, the St. Barbara crew post, American legion, of which Bennett was a member, and scores of individuals.

SPECTACULAR RISE IN STOCK PRICES

Upward Trend Sensational at Friday's Wall-st Opening

New York.—(P)—Stock prices bounded upward in spectacular fashion at the opening of Friday's market. New York Central opened 3 1/2 points higher at 157 1/2, a new high record and initiated a point or two were recorded by Union Pacific, Western Maryland, Chesapeake and Potomac, American Canal, New Haven, American Lumber and International Nickel. Consolidated Gas opened with 2 1/2 points, a new high record, and Texas and Pacific advanced 3 1/2 points to 14 1/2, both new high records.

A wild outburst of buying started throughout the list during the morning session.

Higher prices of low priced oils changed hands in the early trading. One block of 10,000 shares of Pierce Oil was sold at 47 1/2 and a block of 10,000 Super Oil at 47 1/2, both new high records. Sinclair, Standard Oil of California, Texas and Pacific, Trust and Pan-American Oil also moved into new high ground.

Union Pacific sold at the highest price since 1918.

Sharp gains also took place in a number of specialties. Adams Express jumped 3 1/2 points and Wright Aeronautical, Collins and Alkan, Leitch Valley and General Motors advanced 3 to 5 points.

Foreign exchanges opened firm with Sterling cables advancing slightly to $4.88 3/4.

The early purchasing movement in several of the railroads lost all its force. Delaware and Hudson reacting from 2 1/2 to 2 3/4, while Wabash sold at 82 1/2, a new high record. National Tea which has been foremost among the high stagers of the week, declined 1/2 point to 160, the year's minimum figure. The renewal rate for call loans was again maintained at five per cent.

WANT FRATERNAL CLUBS TO ASSIST ON MEMORIAL DAY

Committee Seeks to Have General Observance in Honor of War Veterans

Heads of Appleton fraternal organizations are asked to attend a meeting of the permanent committee in charge of Memorial day activities at 7:30 Monday evening at the city hall. Members of committees which were appointed by the permanent committee several days ago also will attend the session. Invitations have been sent to several local fraternal groups, according to George Dame, permanent secretary of the general committee, but the invitation also is extended to other orders.

Fraternal organizations are being asked to join in Memorial day activities this year, according to Mr. Dame, in an effort to get concerted action from the entire city and renew interest in the day's activities. In the past only patriotic organizations have taken an active part in the work and fraternal groups have held their memorial activities on other dates. The intention now is to get all groups to hold their services or decorate graves of members on Memorial day.

At the meeting last Monday the two major committees on the day's activities were appointed and expected to announce their plans soon. A street parade which will begin at 9:30 Memorial day morning and will include members of the patriotic and military organizations, Boys Scouts, Camp Fire girls and school children already has been planned. Fraternal organizations also will be asked to march in the parade, according to Mr. Dame, and heads of the organizations are being asked to attend the meeting Monday evening in an attempt to complete arrangements.

MAKE COMPLAINT ON COOLIDGE BEDSPREAD

National Flag Code Committee Says the Design is Not Correct

New York—(AP)—Some of the designs in the bedspread which Mrs. Coolidge crocheted for the Abraham Lincoln bedspread in the White House have been called incorrect by the national flag code committee.

The spread is divided into three sections, the first of which displays the Liberty Bell, the second the seal of the United States and the third the olive branch. The border is composed of a series of shields and olive branches.

"The eagle of the great seal of the United States always looks to the right, to victory and honor," Grudley Adams, chairman of the flag code committee, explains. "In his right talon he holds an olive branch, the offer of peace. In his left talon he

G. O. P. HOSTESS IN KANSAS CITY

Mrs. Jacob L. Loose has been named hostess, and her mansion, pictured above, has been designated social headquarters for Republican delegates and alternates and their wives during the Republican national convention in Kansas City in June. Playing hostess is no new game for Mrs. Loose. In 1907 she began taking part in the social life at Washington without giving up her Kansas City residence.

carries thirteen arrows, the 'big stick'.

Mrs. Coolidge's eagle is wrong in several respects. In the first place the eagle is holding the arrows—and only two—in his right talon, and olive branch in his left. The tape through the eagle's mouth, bearing the motto of the United States, is missing, as are also the 13 feathers in his tail. In addition the spread contains some 40 or more shields, not one of which is correct.

"This shield is taken from the great seal, which is the official signature of the United States and is shown in every school dictionary. The correct shield has only six red stripes and seven white ones, just the reverse of the number in the flag while there are no stars in the blue. Mrs. Coolidge's shields have either five, seven or nine red stripes."

Only two out of 500 known varieties of parrots are native to the United States.

The flag over the Admiralty in Whitehall, London, is never lowered, as a sign that the work of the Board of Admiralty never ceases.

URGES NEW PURPOSE IN GEOLOGIC WORK

Depletion of Mineral Resources Occurring at a Rapid Rate, Report Says

Washington—(AP)—With depletion of mineral resources being one of the rapid rate, geologic research with a new purpose and perhaps with new methods, is demanded. Dr. George Otis Smith, director of the United States Geological Survey, believes.

Federal agencies, however, are unable at present, he feels, to provide an adequate national program of geologic work specifically planned to aid mining. Laying the situation before the mines and mining committee of the senate, he pointed out that, while the volume of mineral output had increased 40 per cent since 1919, federal funds for geologic work had been reduced. The 1919 appropriations amounted to less than one one-hundredth of one per cent of the value of the year's production.

"It is the ever mounting curve of mineral consumption," said Dr. Smith, "that I interpret as peculiarly expressive of movements in civilization. The contrast between mining and agriculture is significant in two respects. In the first place, with reference to demand, one generation requires about as much food per capita as another, but its requirements in the stuff that civilization feeds on—metals, fuels and building materials—change with every discovery and invention. In the second place, with reference to supply, mining is a process of depletion whereas agriculture harvests annual crops.

"There are two and only two ways of adding to the country's available mineral assets—by getting a larger recovery from known deposits and by finding new deposits. To keep up the pace already set by the demands of civilization today—not to mention the demand of tomorrow—we need to apply to our task more and better technology and more and better geology."

How To Play Bridge

By Milton C. Work

CONTRACT BRIDGE

Last week we finished discussion of the subject of taking out a partner's suit-bid, today our topic will be take-outs of partner's No Trump bids. We will start with a discussion of

MAJOR TAKE-OUTS OF INITIAL NO TRUMP BIDS.

Once again, let it be emphasized that in Contract Bridge there is no such thing as a weakness in suit, the force of a suit-bid over partner's No Trump shows strength in the suit and also, unless the suit is headed by Ace King Queen, a suit of at least two cards.

The same theory that induces a take-out with a Major suit in Auction Bridge applies in Contract Bridge—that is, the extension of bid or action to the No Trump suit is to give the partner at the No Trump suit the Major suit. The Major suit is the one made with strength only in the suit that is named, or with strength in that suit and one or two others. With the very unusual hand in which the partner of a No Trump has strength in all four suits the Major take-out is not apt to be advisable. With such great strength, a jump to three No Trumps is apt to be better choice.

The Major take-out of the partner's No Trump may be by a bid of two or three. Only with the most extreme length should four of a Major be bid. Because bidding four would insist on the Major no matter what type of hand the No Trump held. Bidding three shows great strength and a valuable hand and his bid was about to bid the No Trump to four or five. The Major, depending upon the character of his hand it is the one case in which a player who has bid initially with minimum strength should subsequently jump his own or his partner's bid. He is not doing this by reason of his own hand but because the nature and size of his partner's bid has demanded it. The Major two-bid of course is a much weaker bid than a three or four; it does not ask the No Trump to go on with the No Trump or with a Major unless the announcement of length and strength in the Major justifies it.

This subject will be continued tomorrow.

STREET DEPARTMENT ANNOUNCES PROGRAM FOR "CLEAN UP WEEK"

Appleton-st is the Dividing Line; Dump Rubbish in Superior-st Ravine

Preparations for collecting rubbish during "Clean Up Week" April 30 to May 7, have been made by R. F. Hackworthy, street commissioner. The collection routes will be similar to those of last year. "Clean Up Week" was ordered by the city council several weeks ago and a formal proclamation was issued by Mayor A. C. Rule Tuesday.

Appleton-st is the dividing line for north and south districts. Four wagons will start early Monday morning and pick up rubbish on the streets east of Appleton-st as far north as the railroad tracks and as far south as Lawrence-st. It is the intention of the street commissioner to collect rubbish in the business district first. The wagons will start at the west end of the streets and work east. After the streets have been cleaned east and west the cross streets in this district, running north and south will be started.

After the east end has been completed work will start in the section between the railroad tracks and Lawrence-st west of Appleton-st and the wagons will work west on the streets running east and west and when these have been completed the cross streets will be next. After the business section has been cleaned, two wagons will take the territory south of the business district and two more will work on the streets north of the business district. The rubbish will be dumped in the Superior-st ravine. Only rubbish that has been placed in boxes or barrels which can be easily lifted by two men will be collected. The department will not haul away ashes, Mr. Hackworthy warns.

Residents in the business district are warned to have their rubbish standing on the sidewalk by Monday morning and the outgoing district will be started by Wednesday so all rubbish should be out by that time.

MANY CITIES SPREAD BOUNDARY LINES FOR CENSUS IN 2 YEARS

Large Number Have Spilled Over Limits and Now Are a Group of Committees

In preparation for the forthcoming census of 1930, seventy-two cities are defining their metropolitan regions in order that the returns may be compiled hereafter to show the rate of growth for such units. It is recognized that the American city has spilled over its limits and is now an aggregation of municipalities.

Among the cities defining such areas, reports the Civic Development Department of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, are New York, Chicago, St. Louis, Philadelphia, St. Paul-Minneapolis, Dallas, Buffalo, Rochester, Kansas City and others. Twenty-one metropolitan area maps are in preparation or have been made.

Nearly all of the cities have recognized the purpose of the metropolitan regions and have drawn boundaries which conservatively outline areas that are urban in character and that are closely associated in the work of the central city. In one or two cases, after maps had been received and the accompanying data studied, it has been suggested to those cities that the boundaries should be enlarged in order to include an area evidently of an urban character.

In only one case so far has a city definitely suggested including territory that did not fall clearly within the purpose of the work. Apparently it is recognized that a metropolitan region means responsibility as well as opportunity and that grasping at too much would not only arouse ridicule outside the community but would tend to bring discredit upon the undertaking among the "home folks."

FRENCHMAN'S INVENTION HELPS TO RIPEN CHEESE

Paris.—(AP)—Frenchman takes his cheese seriously and an apparatus which prevents nice ripe Camembert from running away was the hit of the recent Heath and Home Exhibition here.

It consists of a circular glass dish, which, after a slice has been taken from the unctuous, fragrant cheese, is placed on its side in a special support.

The ingenious inventors claim that Camembert thus kept, not only does not run, but ripens evenly on the inside as a result of the position in which it is maintained.

DEMAND IS BIG FOR GOOD RESEARCH MEN

Universities Have Failed in Attempt to Fill Supply, Whitmore Says

Washington.—(AP)—Universities are doing little to increase their output of research men, in the opinion of Prof. Frank C. Whitmore, new chairman of the Division of Chemistry and Chemical Technology of the National Research Council.

"The idea of research," he says "has been somewhat oversold to the public in the sense that there is not a sufficient production of real research men by the universities to meet the need fostered in the industry."

"The non-chemical public, it seems, has been led to conceive chemistry as really a form of modern magic, achieving its magical results by the

The Children's Room in the Millinery Section is overflowing with the swankiest little hats for every occasion—simple little straws for school and everyday wear, wide hats of the picture type, tams for little tots.

Hair Braids, Leghorns, Rough Weave Silks—a Fascinating Variety

The small girl this season is not limited to a few styles and a meagre choice. There is an amazing array of pretty straws from the leghorn and the open mesh to the finest hair braids. And for "dress up" occasions there are the smartest little hats in rough silks. $1.25 to $5.95.
